Report On Bank Inquiry Is To Be "Human" Document

At First Public Sitting, Held in Ottawa To-day, Chairman Promises Findings Will Be Worded So All in Canada Can Understand Them

J. A. Macleod Is The First Witness

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Aug. 8.—Report of the royal commission on Canadian banking and currency will be a "human" document and not a technical treatise suitable only for those versed in the language and science of the profession. This was the assurance given by the chairman, Baron Macmillan, at the opening hearing in the senate railway committee room here to-day.

The opening ceremonies were conducted by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, who welcomed the commissioners, and by Lord Macmillan, who set forth some of the hopes and desires of the inquiry body.

All members of the commission, Lord Macmillan, Rt. Hon. Sir Thomas White of Toronto, former Minister of Finance of Canada; Hon. J. E. Brownlee, Premier of Alberta; Desautel Leman of Montreal, general manager of La Banque Canadienne Nationale; and Hon. J. A. Macleod, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, were present. Rt. Hon. Sir George Perley, Acting Prime Minister, and prominent banking officials, also attended.

HISTORY REVIEWED

J. A. Macleod, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, the first witness, gave an account of the working of the Canada Bank Act since its inception in 1871.

Baron Macmillan announced the witnesses to-day would give the commission details of that aspect of banking which related to operations between the financial institutions and the general public.

TO-MORROW DR. W. C. CLARK, DEPUTY MINISTER OF FINANCE, WOULD PRESENT A BRIEF RESPECTING THE RELATIONS BETWEEN THE GOVERNMENT AND THE BANKS.

OPPORTUNITY FOR DISCUSSION

This afternoon's session would not be open to the public, the chairman announced, and the sessions throughout Canada would be held along similar lines, with opportunity for formal testimony and discussion.

NAZI PROPAGANDA CAMPAIGN IS EASED

Italy Informed German Planes Will Stop Dropping Leaflets in Austria; Berlin's Answer to Britain Less Favorable

Canadian Press and Associated Press

London, Aug. 8.—The Italian Government has received assurances from Germany every effort will be made to put a stop to propaganda leaflets from airplanes over Austria and broadcasting of attacks on the Austrian Government, it was learned to-day.

Italy approached Germany in a friendly way last week on the subject of the Austrian-German tension.

Yesterday the British and French made representations to the Berlin Government on the same topic. It was usually well-informed quarters it was said to-day the British Government was sitting back, waiting to see if anything further should develop.

ANSWER TO BRITAIN

Berlin, Aug. 8.—The German Government has told Great Britain and France their interest in the German-Austrian impasse is not welcome.

The British and French ambassadors handed the German Foreign Office identical notes saying German propaganda activities in Austria violated the spirit of the Four-power peace treaty, and were advised mediation in the situation was "inadvisable."

The Berlin government, the envoys were told yesterday, failed to see any reason for applying provisions of the pact the three nations and Italy recently signed in Rome and why they should interfere in the present situation.

Hollyhock Record Challenged Here

Sealt Ste. Marie hollyhocks may establish a record in Ontario, but they will be dwarfed by some Victoria gardeners can produce, a friend of B. C. Walker, 406 Kingston Street, claimed this morning. The friend came in to challenge the record of an 11 ft. 3-in. hollyhock grown by J. Pilkington, of Ste. Marie, and entered in a competition there along with others well over ten feet. The Victoria gardener has a hollyhock of 11 feet 3-in. and it is still going strong his friend reports. It is being groomed for a record and it is expected it will grow another five or six inches yet.

SLAYERS CLEAR OF POLICE NET

As Yet Three Men Who Killed Constable Lenhard in Regina Not Found

Among the Many Questioned By Police Are Mere Boys, "Drifters"

Regina, Aug. 8.—A day and a half after Constable George Lenhard was shot down in cold blood by one of a trio of men he stopped to question Sunday evening, weary police early this afternoon were no nearer the capture of any of the three.

The full strength of the city police force, augmented by R.C.M.P. and railway police, continued the ever-widening search for the slayer and his companions, but without success.

Scores of men were rounded up and taken to police headquarters for a severe grilling, but none were held on any charge in connection with the murder of the officer.

INQUEST OPENED

An inquest on the death of the twenty-six-year-old constable was opened yesterday evening by Dr. W. A. Thompson, coroner, after a report on the shooting was received which showed that two of the three bullets fired were sufficient to cause almost instant death. The inquest was adjourned till Friday.

No opinion had been officially expressed as to whether the hunted persons might be transients or local men.

Within less than thirty minutes after the shooting every highway and road leading out of Regina for twenty miles around was blocked and all freight trains were being stopped and searched, so it would be almost impossible for the men to escape, except by cutting across country.

BOYS AMONG THOSE QUESTIONED

In the first rush of the search Sunday night and yesterday, 300 men were questioned by the police. It was a motley group, representative of practically every part of Canada and many of the states south of the international line, that was rounded up.

Kits of all descriptions were scattered over the jail floor. Scores of those taken in the railway yards were mere boys. In torn and soiled blankets they carried bits of food, ragged clothing and all sorts of odds and ends. None of them had any money.

One of the men was sitting on its own eggs. The other was sitting on duck eggs.

The opium tins were labeled with a duck brand.

While not believed to have any direct connection with the recent find of twelve tins of opium by a pair of boys, the officers said the drug was of the same brand as that found by the youths, and may have arrived in the country by the same shipment.

DYNAMITING IN MILK STRIKE

Governor of New York State Ready to Call Out Troops

Lowville, N.Y., Aug. 8.—A cement milk house on the farm of Henry Kraeger, a Mohawk Hill Dairymen's League member, was dynamited to-day, according to Sheriff Louis A. Kohler of Lewis County.

The blast shook farm buildings for miles around and scattered large masses of cement for several hundred yards. About twenty milk cans were destroyed.

The dynamiting was the first to be reported in the eight-day-old milk strike.

TROOPS ON CALL

Albany, N.Y., Aug. 8.—Governor Herbert H. Lehman to-day summoned Major-General William Haskell, commanding field officer of the New York National Guard, to a conference at the executive office for the purpose of determining what forces would be available if it should become necessary to call out the state militia during the present milk strike.

The Governor made it plain he had given no orders for mobilization, but declared he would call out the militia if it should become necessary for the protection of life and property in the strike-torn areas.

U.S. DOLLAR IN LONDON

London, Aug. 8. (Associated Press).—The United States dollar moved within a narrow range here to-day, closing at 84.48 1/2 to the pound sterling, up 1 1/2 cents.

EXCHANGE DOLLAR GAINS SLIGHTLY

New York, Aug. 8.—Minor improvement was displayed by Canadian and British currencies here to-day.

The Canadian dollar gained 1/4 cent to close at 93 1/2 cents. The premium in United States funds was 6 1/2 per cent against Canadian currency.

The pound sterling advanced 1 cent to a cable rate of 84.49.

Police Find Hens Sitting On Opium

Drug Valued at $1,400 Uncovered in Chicken House at Port Alberni

Mah Bing, Chinese, Charged With Possession By R.C.M.P. Officers

Port Alberni, Aug. 8.—Opium valued at approximately $1,400 was seized here yesterday by Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers, and this morning Mah Bing, Chinese, appeared on a charge of unlawful possession of the drug. He was remanded for hearing.

The drug was found beneath two setting hens, in the hen-house at the rear of premises on Second Street, at South Street.

Corporal M. T. Berger and Detective Constables G. J. Heywood and Alex. Meiklejohn made the discovery, and only their persistency resulted in the uncovering of the opium.

After inspecting the whole of the premises, the officers went to the chicken house in the rear and conducted their search.

One of the hens was sitting on its own eggs. The other was sitting on duck eggs.

The opium tins were labeled with a duck brand.

While not believed to have any direct connection with the recent find of twelve tins of opium by a pair of boys, the officers said the drug was of the same brand as that found by the youths, and may have arrived in the country by the same shipment.

City Pays $2,800 To Rear Child

Unable To Place Little Tot In Children's Aid Home Owing to Mother's Religion; Council Wants Act Changed

Possibility that the city may seek an amendment to the act governing neglected children was indicated at the City Council meeting yesterday afternoon, following a protest voiced by some aldermen against an order requiring the city to pay for the care of a child, the court order was referred to the legislative committee to consider with a view to change.

The situation arose in the case of a child of unmarried parents who was neglected by the mother. The court ordered the child confined in the Roman Catholic home for children in Vancouver, as it took the religion of its mother, and then made the order compelling the city to pay $3 a week for care of the child until it is eighteen years old. It is now six months.

Alderman James Adam questioned why the child should be forced to pay in such a case. It meant the city would have to meet $2,800 before the responsibility ceased. He thought some remedy was necessary.

The city solicitor pointed out that had the child not been Roman Catholic, it would have gone to the Children's Aid home, which is financed partly by the city and would have entailed no extra cost. The act required, however, that the child be sent to the Roman Catholic institution in Vancouver if the parent wished and it costs $3 a week to keep it there. The only possible remedy was a change in the act.

AGITATORS UP FOR DEPORTATION

Calgary, Aug. 8.—Deportation of thirteen persons, charged with being agitators in recent Alberta relief camp troubles, is sought by the Alberta relief commission. Applications for the deportations have been sent Ottawa by the commission, which refuses to divulge any names.

A. A. Mackenzie, commission chairman, declares the commission also will seek to deport every deportable person who becomes a public charge during his first five years of residence in Alberta and who does not give promise of becoming a good citizen.

U.S. Ambassador Intimates Turmoil May Be Settled Without Interference

Deathlist Resulting From Police Firing in Havana Stands at 21

Associated Press

Havana, Aug. 8.—United States Ambassador Sumner Welles, seeking to end Cuba's political turmoil, which resulted yesterday in a casualty list of twenty-one dead and 130 wounded in street demonstrations, declared after a long interview with President Machado to-day that the United States would not interfere.

By John F. McKnight, Associated Press Correspondent

Havana, Aug. 8.—Strike-torn Cuba to-day counted the cost of a widespread strike in terms of a mounting death toll and a tense political situation complicated by demands for President Machado's resignation and his efforts to re-establish peace by armed force.

Machine guns and heavy guards at public buildings withdrew after a day of twenty-one persons had been killed and more than 120 wounded during a demonstration yesterday evening, which followed a report that Machado had resigned, but hundreds of army reserves were held ready in the barracks to-day for any emergency.

The A. B. C. opposition society had broadcast a report the President had agreed to withdraw, whereupon thousands rushed into the streets in a hilarious mood, and the police and men hurried to the scene, to be joined by mounted officers.

In a blaze of rifle, pistol and sub-machine gun fire, scores fell, dead or wounded, and the situation grew more chaotic in other parts of Havana, and demonstrations in which several were killed took place in nearby towns.

ROBBERY TO-DAY IN MONTREAL

Montreal, Aug. 8.—Two armed men held up the Calise Populaire de Ste. Cecile, savings bank attached to the parish of Ste. Cecile here to-day, and escaped with a sum estimated at $1,500. According to Fernand Blache, cashier, who was alone at the time, the two men entered and told him to put his hands up. They escaped in a car waiting outside.

REPORT OF PROGRESS

New York, Aug. 8.—The Mackay Radio reported that at 6:03 a.m. E.S.T. (3:05 a.m. Victoria time), to-day the two leading squadrons of the Italian seaplane armada were 140 miles out from Shoal Harbor, Newfoundland.

Nine of the twenty-four planes under Gen. Italo Balbo's command, were scheduled to land at Horta, and the others at Ponta Delgada in the Azores, it was said.

STARTED AT DAWN

Shoal Harbor, Nfld., Aug. 8.—The Italian air armada was out over the Atlantic to-day, bound for the Azores on the fourth leg of the homeward flight from Chicago to Italy.

Dried Flowers Brewed Into Tea With Morphine Content By Saanich Orientals

Court Test Plan Where Growers Start Harvesting

Royal Canadian Mounted Police are keeping close tab on several tracts of land in Saanich where poppies are being grown by Orientals. Under the law a person is entitled to grow poppies, but not to harvest them.

Recent investigations show that the dried poppies are being brewed into tea which carries a morphine content of about 8 per cent.

One of the tracts was involved in a lawsuit recently and some articles were sold to satisfy claims. One sack of "chaff" was sought by several Hindus. The official sent out to investigate the matter believed he had made a good sale when he received $4 for the sack, but later found that he could have obtained $50 for the dried heads.

The mounted police are expected to make an arrest at harvest time, and the case will be in the nature of a test until legislation is brought down at Ottawa forbidding the growth of the flower.

NEW TAXI BY-LAW FOR VANCOUVER

Newton Baker Goes to Banff

Will Head U.S. Delegation at Meeting of Pacific Institute

Canadian Press

New York, Aug. 8.—Twenty-four United States delegates, led by Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, will leave here soon for Banff, Alta., to attend the fifth biennial conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations, meeting for the first time on North American soil August 14 to 23.

The institute delegates will sit for two weeks at the Rocky Mountain resort and hold round-table discussions of problems peculiar to the Pacific area. The institute takes no official position on international issues, but gives opportunities for development of better understanding between nations on the Pacific or having interests in the Pacific.

Discussions will be held on cases of economic conflict arising in the Pacific, including appraisal of existing agencies for settlement of such conflict, and proposals for possible improvement of these agencies.

Measure Prescribing Rules Will Be Discussed With Those Interested Before Council Passes It

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Aug. 8.—Before the proposed new by-law governing taxis in Vancouver will be passed, the city council will be held with members of the council, City Solicitor J. B. Williams stated to-day on completion of the draft of the by-law.

The by-law contains several drastic changes from the old one and is a result of study of conditions in other cities where regulations have been made after exhaustive study by royal commissions.

With Vancouver adopting similar regulations, practically all leading cities of the Dominion will have uniform laws for the taxi business.

METER SYSTEM

Outstanding changes will require the old taxi be metered on a date to be set by the council. The police chief will be responsible for "outside" administration, with the license inspector having general supervision. Working hours will be limited to eight for not more than six days a week. No person will be licensed unless he is responsible financially or is insured.

U.S. Officials Inquiring Into Price Crash Demand "Inside" Information

Chicago, Aug. 8.—The Chicago Tribune to-day said the investigation of the recent wheat price crash would be one of the most sweeping ever undertaken by the United States Department of Agriculture and would include operations on the Chicago, Minneapolis, Duluth and Kansas City exchanges.

"All phases of the advance in wheat between June 15 and July 15, and the drastic decline of 30% cents between the latter date and the inside level of 92 1/2 cents for December delivery by July 20 will be delved into," the paper said.

The trade in all markets was reported to have received official instructions as to the information desired. The Tribune said the reports would be submitted to a careful audit.

The Tribune said every operation in the wheat market equaling 200,000 bushels or more between the beginning of business on June 15 and July 31, regardless of character, must be shown.

agreement the council had with the former minister.

"If a man and a party can come along and pull this country out of the hole and restore anything like prosperity no one cares if he and they call themselves 'Capitalists,' 'Communists,' 'Whigs,' 'Tories' or 'Traitors,'" says The Vancouver Sun in an editorial headed "Political Labels," dealing with the many parties in the field.

Some success is recorded in the plan to clear the track for Colonel W. W. Foster, president of the B.C. Conservative Association, and make it a straight fight between a Liberal and Conservative candidate for the Gulf Islands seat. Capt. M. P. Macintosh, who represented the constituency in the "Late Lamented Legislature," and who had announced his independent Conservative candidature, has agreed to drop out if the colonel runs. The other independent Conservative and the Bower nominee have to be persuaded to follow the captain's example to set the field as the colonel would like it before he runs.

Island Conservatives will have a nominating convention to settle the question of August 22, when they will pick a candidate "who is independent of party affiliation and subordinate to the principle of a co-operative or union government." The resolution adds, "The question of leadership is not the factor; it is one of principle and the question of leadership should not be introduced at present."

"Premier J. W. Jones."—The Minister of Finance has been asked to see how little sounds to him, according to some persons who haunt the Parliament Buildings. They report two or three delegations—or the same delegation—two or three times—have called on Mr. Jones and put the proposal to him, accompanied with the suggestion that he run in Victoria to be elected as the Moses to lead the province out of the wilderness.

"Should these plans materialize, it is not too late to put up an energetic campaign in the province in conjunction with the C.C.F. and Independents, that will give the Trades Union Movement in this province greater political power and prestige than has ever had before," the organ of the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council says in regard to the plan to form parliamentary units in different centres.

The union would draw up legislative programmes relative to the interests of the unions in the province such as the six-hour day, minimum wage, workmen's compensation, health insurance, unemployment insurance and other matters. Victoria has practically adopted the plan.

A district C.C.F. council for the Dewdney riding has been formed with A. Robertson, Hatzic, president; A. R. Patterson, Haney, vice-president, and C. E. Ellison, Haney, secretary.

R. B. Swales has been named C.C.F. candidate for the Delta and opened his campaign with a meeting at Stevenson recently.

Heads of Union in Pennsylvania Vote Men Back to Jobs

Associated Press
Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 8.—More than 100 heads of United Mine Workers' locals, representing about 20,000 miners, voted unanimously today to return to work in the soft coal fields of southwestern Pennsylvania.

The action was taken in a rising vote after a series of speeches by an adviser of the national recovery administration, had delivered a stirring appeal to the men to support President Roosevelt's recovery programme. Several hundred people, many of them strikers, milled about the streets as the decision was reached.

The men have been on strike for more than two weeks, demanding recognition of the United Mine Workers of America.

At present some drivers work at other occupations during the day and take taxis at night, which practice is to be forbidden.

The various proposals are decidedly contentious and for that reason a conference is thought necessary before final action is taken.

The weather was fine and clear, with a light westerly wind.

Previous plans for flying direct to Ireland had been abandoned because of nearly two weeks of waiting had failed to bring reports of favorable conditions along the route.

COSTLY MAIL.
When the armada soared away from Shoal Harbor today it carried several thousand pieces of mail for delivery in Europe. Letters posted in Newfoundland carried 75-cent air-mail stamps, making the most expensive air-mail stamps in the world, and just 90 cents higher than the stamps issued in the United States for mail from New York to Rome on the same flight.

FLIGHT ENDS IN ACCIDENT

Associated Press
Harbor Grace, Nfld., Aug. 8.—The Polish-American fliers, Benjamin and Joseph Adamowicz, and Emil Birgen, a pilot accompanying them, escaped serious injury when their big monoplane, "White Eagle," cracked up in a landing here this afternoon after a flight from New York.

The plane came down and ran from the landing field into scrub growth and cracked up.

They left Floyd Bennett Airport, New York, early this morning. The monoplane had been sighted several times as it passed over Newfoundland.

STRIKES START
Brooklyn, N.Y., Aug. 8.—Two Polish-American brothers, Benjamin and Joseph Adamowicz, hoping to fly from New York to their ancestral country, Poland, took off from Floyd Bennett airport early to-day on what they said was merely a "test flight."

By another pilot, Emil Birgen. Airport attendants, after their departure, expressed the belief there was a possibility they might continue on across the ocean, with or without a stop at Harbor Grace.

Taking off unexpectedly at 5.06 a.m., eastern standard time, (3.06 a.m. Victoria time), without making announcement of their intention until just before the hop-off, they took more than 500 gallons of gasoline with them, attendants said.

NO MEDIATION FOR CUBANS

Almost immediately Machado appealed to the nation to "defend the republic's independence at all costs," and declared his government always had been well disposed toward labor, thousands of whom now are on a strike called in some circles a passive revolution against the government.

His secretary, Ramiro Guerra, later gave out a statement which said Machado had not resigned and "it is equally untrue the Liberal, Popular and Conservative Parties have agreed President Machado's resignation is the only way to settle the Cuban political difficulties."

FARTIES BLAMED
The Department of the Interior in a statement added: "Responsibility for blood spilled falls entirely on those who put out false notices, with the perverse and false intention of provoking troubles, produced, headed by criminal elements, to encounter the public forces obliged to maintain order and uphold the institutions."

WALKED THROUGH STREETS
To speak in a radio broadcast yesterday evening, President Machado walked two blocks from his palace to the police headquarters building.

Soon after the shooting check-ups at the morgue, three first aid stations, the Emergency and Calisto Gabeira Hospitals, accounted for at least twenty dead and 120 wounded. One of the deaths occurred at the nearby town of Mantilla, and the others here.

One policeman, Rafael Perez Ocan, was shot through the chest and killed. The other victims were civilians.

BEAUTY FILLS FAMOUS SHIP

Five-masted "Buccaneer" in Dotage Becomes Gay Showboat

New York, Aug. 8.—It's a pretty gay dotage that the five-masted barkentine "Buccaneer" has embarked upon. The ship is a showboat now, the only one in these waters, and she's full to the cuppers with pulchritude, her staunch decks echoing with the precision of the chorus.

Tunes have changed. It was not long ago that songs like this drifted through her shrouds and spars:

"On the anchor is weighed and the anchor is weighed and the anchor is weighed."

"Away, Rio!"

"The masts that we're leaving we'll never forget."

"And away, Rio, Rio!"

Now, though, the masts are right on board, a stern crew. The chanties they sing are those of Broadway... and muted trumpet and mellow sax now "blow the man down."

A SHOWBOAT'S EVOLUTION
The "Buccaneer" has seen excitement in her time. For a long while she carried heavy cargoes of cypress from Gulf ports, and braved the squalls and drudgery until a beer-running syndicate came down around Philadelphia acquired her services. After that, passing through devious ownerships, the "Buccaneer" one day sailed into the Hudson River, which she seems destined never to leave.

The lines of her and her comfortable size, together with the aura of glamor that hovers over every real sailing ship these days, soon caught the interest of a group of wealthy sportsmen. Among them were William H. Vanderbilt, George Palmer Putnam and John McEntee Bowman. They organized The "Buccaneer" Club, bought the ship, and gave her a red trim with white skull and cross-bones.

Some four hundred other New Yorkers paid a fee of $300 to join, and had lunch aboard the craft a few times while they planned to "initiate, foster, and participate in a renaissance of the arts of the building and sailing of square-rigged ships."

But the "Buccaneer" never put out to sea. Instead, the enterprise went bankrupt and the barkentine just lay there at her moorings, riding the easy swell and wondering whose next. Nothing happened so she broke loose one night and started down the river, playing hob with ferry traffic and finally being captured by the coastguard.

A lot of offers came after that. The Sea Scouts wanted her for a training ship and a liquor syndicate wanted to anchor her outside the twelve-mile limit as a gambling casino and night club. But nobody was able to pay the accumulated docking charges until the Hudson River Day Line took hold, topper with Bobby Sanford, revue producer, and made her up to a showboat.

They towed her up to Yonkers, chopped off the three-centre masts, and installed a good-sized theatre. The "Buccaneer" will never sail again.

WATER, WATER EVERYWHERE
A belated note on the Italian flyers. It seems that one of the highest officers, while drawing his bath, twisted off a faucet handle while the hot water was running full blast, then discovered he couldn't get the plug out... Knowing, he thought, a little English, he leaped to the telephone and called the hotel management.

"What was that, sir? Hotter?" Oh, he was sure—water! Yes, sir; immediately, sir... Lots of water? All right, sir... The officer dashed back and watched apprehensively as the tub overflowed and a steaming stream started into his bedroom... About that time two bellboys arrived. Each bore two pitchers of ice-water.

TO-DAY'S GOLD PRICE
Chicago, Aug. 8 (Associated Press).—Official price of gold in London today was 124 shillings, 7½ pence. With pound sterling being quoted at $4.78 in Montreal, the approximate equivalent was $29.77 an ounce in terms of the Canadian dollar.

SEARCH MADE FOR VANCOUVER MAN

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Aug. 8.—That A. McGowan, who disappeared August 3, may be a victim of aphasia resulting from a shrapnel wound in the head received overseas, is the theory advanced by relatives and police who are carrying on an intensive search for the man.

Mr. McGowan drove his truck to the dock of the Pacific Fish Company at the north end of Campbell Avenue to-day and was having it loaded with fish by company employees when he disappeared. Officials of the company first thought he might have fallen from the dock and drowned, but immediate dragging operations disproved that theory.

The missing man was well known in insurance circles. Previous to the Great War he was connected with the Vancouver Board of Underwriters and, on returning from overseas, engaged in the insurance business in California.

Chicago, Aug. 8 (Associated Press).—Federal authorities to-day announced they were holding Louis (Doc) Tracy as the man who plotted the attempted delivery of Frank Nash, convict, at Kan City, and they had learned the identity of the gunman who killed five persons in the attempt.

King, Touring Plains, Visits Saskatoon

The Liberal leader will make a brief tour through Alberta before returning east. He will also address two or three meetings in other parts of Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

During his two weeks in the Prince Albert constituency, Mr. King addressed a number of afternoon picnics and evening meetings.

NEXT PRIME MINISTER
At the meeting here yesterday evening Mr. King was referred to by the chairman, Dr. Thomas Robertson, as president of the Prince Albert Liberal Association, as "the next Prime Minister."

PENSION QUESTION
During the eight-and-a-half years his government has been in power it had been faithful to pledges given to returned men, Mr. King stated, in referring to representations made to him by Prince Albert veterans.

"The place a nation should seek to economize is not with pensions of returned men," he asserted.

"The nation should sacrifice almost everything else before failing in the pledges which were made to wives and mothers at the time their husbands and sons went to war. That was his view, and that was the position he would take if returned to power."

"So far as he was aware, said Mr. King, no civil servant had been dismissed from a permanent post during the Liberal administration for political reasons. The present government had handed out dismissals right and left "without heart and soul." It had deprived men of their employment for purely partisan reasons. He instanced dismissals from penitentiary staffs. He also referred to appointments under the Pacific Coast Commission, he said, the government had sought to have removed from the jurisdiction of the Civil Service Commission. He was glad to say the opposition had succeeded in getting a considerable amendment to the radio bill in regard to appointments, but it had not gone far enough.

C.C.F. AND CONSTITUTION

Speaking of proposals of the C.C.F. program to nationalize the forests, mines and industries of Canada, with out changing the constitution of Canada.

He thought discussion of the C.C.F. programme might begin and end with the statement the constitution could not be amended without the consent of both the House of Commons and the Senate. How did the C.C.F. propose to get an amendment to the constitution through a Senate with a Conservative majority? It would be a long time before such an amendment would go through Parliament.

On the general question of capital and labor, the Liberal leader asserted control of industry had rested to long with the former. Labor should be given its fair share in the control of capital, labor and the community should all have representation in the running of the railways.

"Reforms are best brought about one step at a time," Mr. King declared. "You cannot have a program of state ownership and control with an impossibility under present conditions. Mr. King went on. The C.C.F. platform including "debt removal" was not feasible and should not be held up. It was a people who were asking for immediate help and relief. It was like "rubbing salt into a wound."

BANK INQUIRY

Mr. King thought the government had made a mistake in not appointing representatives of the farming community and labor on the bank commission now starting its inquiry.

He thought Mr. Bennett's high tariff policy was wrong and he believed the people of Canada were now in agreement with him (Mr. King).

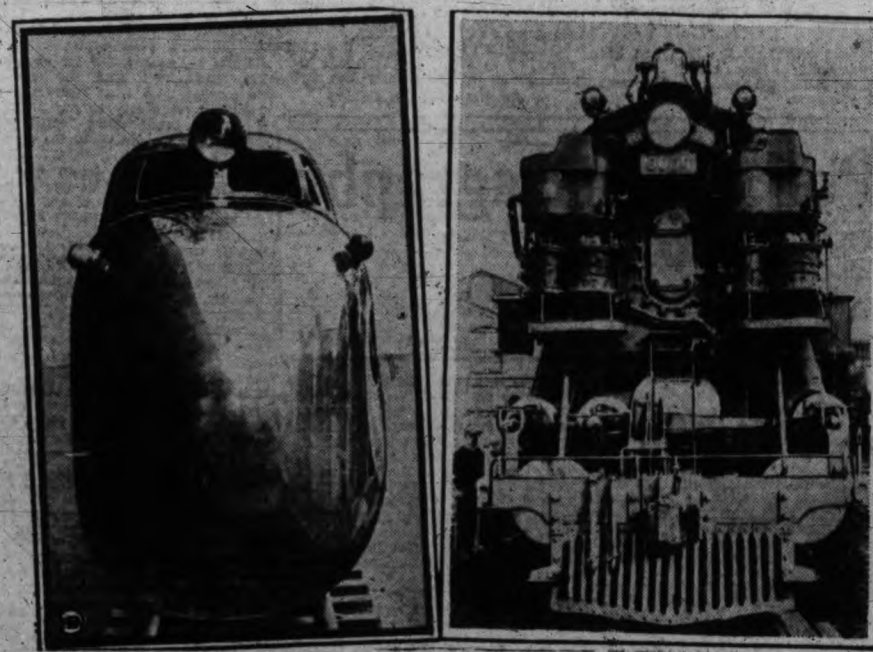

"From now on I am going to have a little more to say about Mr. Bennett's policies," he said. "I think they are strangling trade."

IMMIGRATION DISCUSSION
He was astonished to see, continued the Liberal leader, that a minister of Finance was talking about reviving immigration. "We had better turn our attention to bringing back our wage scale in Canada before we discuss bringing more people here," he declared.

When Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, landed at Quebec last Thursday from England, he was quoted in a Canadian Press dispatch as telling "a quickening interest in the possibility of Canada as a land of opportunity for British families desiring to stake their futures on Canadian farms."

Mr. Rhodes was reported to have said while there had been informal discussions of this subject during the World Economic Conference, at no time had the question of assisted passage been raised.

CHANGE OF FACE—AND PACE—IN RAILROAD

Here is a graphic picture story of the evolution of the locomotive. At the left is the bullet-nosed power plant now being built by the Union Pacific to streak over the rails with a three-car aluminum train at 110 miles an hour. At the right is one of the giant locomotives now in use on the road, weighing, with its tender, 350 tons—nearly five times the weight of the whole aluminum train—but so powerful it can draw mile-long freight trains at fifty miles an hour.

Flying Councillor Is Disappointed

Associated Press
Pellingswood, N.J., Aug. 8.—Four hundred miles from the Vermont-Quebec border, rushed Commissioner Arthur E. Armitage by airplane to attend a meeting of the borough fathers. Hurrying into the hall, he found the custodian scrubbing the floor. "There ain't no meeting to-night," the janitor explained. "It has been postponed until next week." "And," mournfully added the commissioner, "it cost me a month's salary to attend to-night."

Samuel Addresses Montreal Audience

Canadian Press
Montreal, Aug. 8.—Its first duty is to itself, but the British Commonwealth of Nations nevertheless has the additional duty of throwing the weight of its influence into the balance in favor of world peace, Sir Herbert Samuel, leader of the British Parliamentary Liberal Party and head of the United Kingdom delegation to the conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations at Banff, Alberta, yesterday told the Canadian Club of Montreal in an address entitled, "The British Commonwealth and the World Crisis."

HOLLAND-SOVIET TRADE TREATY

Associated Press

The pact also suggested, it was said, part of the Soviet trade now passing through Hamburg, Germany, be transferred to some Dutch port.

Delegates Arriving At Banff For Conference

Several Members of British Group Already on Ground For Pacific Institute Meeting

Banff, Alta., Aug. 8.—Advance guard of the British delegation to the conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations, which will open formally next Monday, arrived at the Banff Springs Hotel yesterday and to-day was taking in preliminary committee work prior to the first main session.

Included in the first part of the British group are A. Ross, C.I.E., of London, a member of the Royal Institute of International Affairs; I. S. Macadam of London, secretary of the British Council of the Institute of Pacific Relations; and G. M. Gathorne Hardy, M.C., honorary secretary of the Royal Institute.

The leader of the British group, Rt. Hon. Sir Herbert Samuel, M.P., will not arrive until next Sunday, just prior to the first full dress session.

An important member of the United States group also in Banff to-day is Dr. C. L. Alderson, director of the food research institute of Stanford University, California.

The conference programme committee held a short preliminary session yesterday. The Pacific Council later went over the ground work of the coming discussions after hearing and discussing a paper by W. L. Holland, research secretary of the institute on

SAYS CONFERENCE CALLED TOO SOON

JAMES M. COX

Cox, last United States delegate to leave the scene of the World Economic Conference, who yesterday returned from London, expressed the opinion to-day the conference "was called too soon."

The task of the conference, he said, was hampered to some extent by Central European countries, which, he added, "are facing internal difficulties of an economic order and were not ready for the conference."

Although he described business conditions in Europe as "improving," he asserted Europe was engaged in an economic "struggle for self-containment."

EISTEDDFOD IS HELD IN WALES

Lord Howard de Walden

at Wrexham

Wrexham, Wales, Aug. 8.—The Welsh Eisteddfod opened here to-day with a Welsh production of the miracle play "Every Man," financed by Lord Howard de Walden. An assistant of the famous Reinhardt of Oberammergau, Bavaria, Walden said he learned Welsh especially for the play.

To-day's large attendance included many Welshmen from Canada. One of the first contests of the programme for brass bands was won by the Rhos silver band, whose members travelled here despite the fact their big colliery was closed two weeks ago. Another band from South Wales won second prize after journeying straight from the pithead.

JEWS APPEAL TO THE LEAGUE

Associated Press
New York, Aug. 8.—Samuel Untermyer, New York attorney, who presided at the International Jewish Conference in Amsterdam, was welcomed back yesterday by a cheering crowd which waved Anti-Hitler placards as Untermyer explained the boycott movement. "Our campaign is two-fold, defensive and constructive," said Untermyer. "On the defensive side will be the economic boycott against all German goods, shipping and services. On the constructive side will be an appeal to the League of Nations to construe and enforce the labor union provisions of the Versailles Treaty and the written promises made by Germany while the treaty was under negotiation to protect its minorities, which have been flagrantly violated by a disenfranchisement and persecution of Germany Jews."

MAYOR EXPLAINS RELIEF BASIS

Vancouver, Aug. 8.—Delegates representing the Socialist Party of Canada were told by Mayor Louis D. Taylor yesterday that municipalities had no legal responsibility to care for jobless and that whatever was done for them, was done out of compassion. "This was according to a court decision given recently in Hamilton, Ontario," the mayor said. He explained a resident of that city had brought an action when he was refused relief because he possessed a radio. The delegation protested the decision of the city to send to road camps unemployed men who now live with parents here.

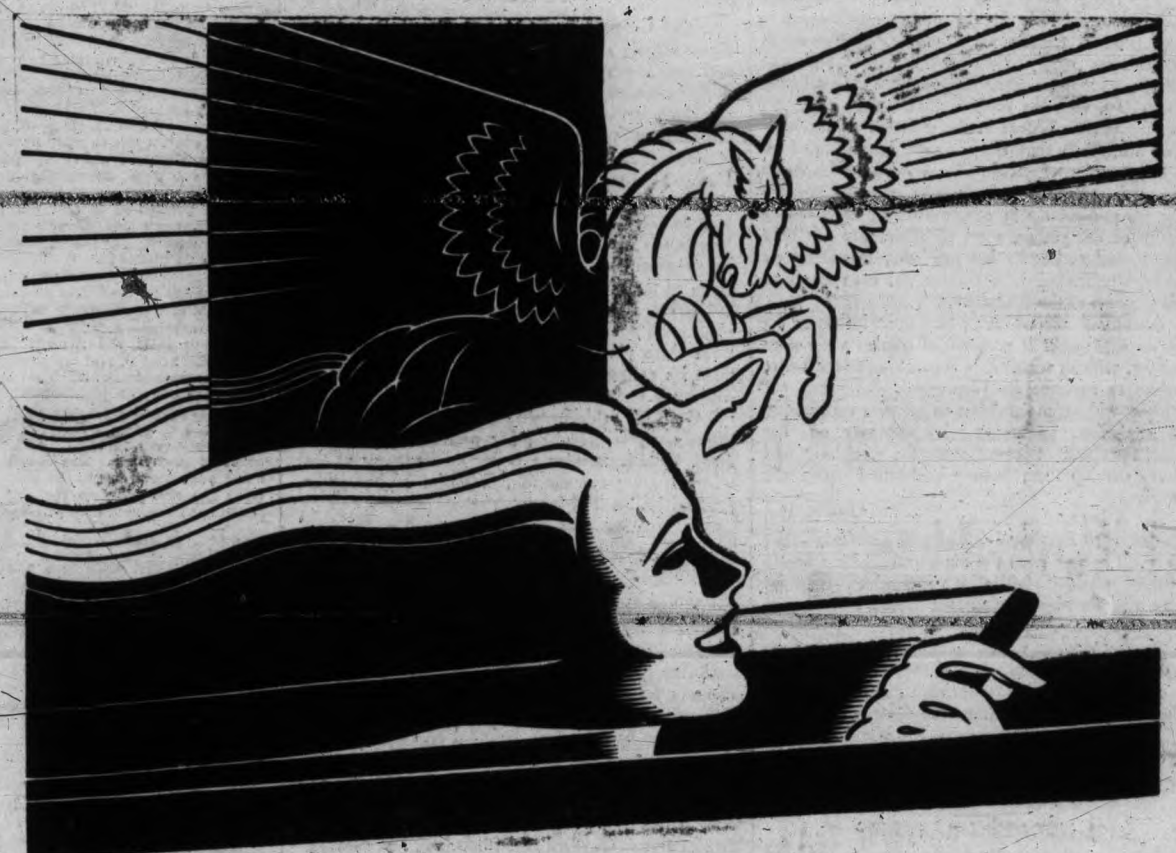

More than 900,000 square miles, of 28 per cent of the area of Canada exclusive of the Arctic islands, is still unexplored.

CAMPBELL RIVER FISHERMEN BUSY

The landing of a fifty-four and a half pound tye salmon, among others, is focusing the attention of fishermen to Campbell River now. Fishing is reported to be about two weeks late there and tyes will not be in full run until the next few days.

Cohoos are taking the fly in great style, according to E. F. Palmer, official weigher of the Tye Club. He reports coho fishing to be at its peak now and anticipates an outstanding season from the point of view of the fisherman's catch. It is easy to excel, the day's limit in a few hours, Mr. Palmer states.

The berry of an East Indian plant, anamirta paniculata, is used to stupefy fish so that they may be taken by hand by the natives.

The Smoothest Piston Stroke

Ever Achieved with a Non-Premium Gasoline

UNION 76 gives full exhilarating power—the kind of power which fulfills every demand made by the designers of your high-compression motor. Pressure on the piston-head is steady all the way down the power stroke. This pressure is maintained evenly between the firing of every cylinder—giving a continuous thrust of driving power. It's the smoothest piston stroke ever achieved with a non-premium gasoline.

This smoothness ends pounding and vibration and thus gives your motor full power—smooth, rapid acceleration and extra mileage.

Such performance can only be obtained with a finer anti-knock gasoline. That's why years of intensive research, experiment and road tests have gone into making 76 the finest anti-knock non-premium gasoline available in Western Canada.

MR. CROMIE ON RUSSIA

Mr. R. J. Cromie, publisher of The Vancouver Sun, is in eastern Canada on his way home from a tour which included a nine-day visit in Russia. Judging by interviews given by him to newspapers in New York he was favorably impressed with what he saw during his stay in Moscow, for he described the people there as happy and contented, 60,000 attending horse races, and 50,000 a football game with applications for admission tickets from 500,000. He declared that Russia was the "best credit bet in the world today" and that while its policies and methods might not be applicable to other countries, the Soviet Union had "tremendous virility, ability and pride in its achievement."

This is a far cry from the views of Dr. Will Durant, whose lectures in Vancouver and Victoria some months ago were sponsored by Mr. Cromie, who in fact acted as chairman on Dr. Durant's appearance on the platform here. Probably if Dr. Durant were to reply to Mr. Cromie he would say that the Vancouver publisher spent only nine days in Russia, most of which were in Moscow, and that Moscow was only the Soviet show-window—where visitors saw only what the Soviet authorities wanted them to see.

Admittedly no country, its people, its policy or its real social or economic condition, can be properly judged by its capital, especially a country so vast and populous as Russia. It is impossible to appraise even superficially the United States by a visit to New York or Canada from a sojourn in Montreal.

The fact is that Russia is passing through a stage incidental to a "New Deal," and is endeavoring to make good a tremendous economic experiment in circumstances purely Russian. Whether she will succeed or not is an open question from the viewpoint of outsiders, with the odds in favor of an evolution from the present system in the direction of representative institutions and the ultimate abandonment of the dictatorship. Individualism is bound to force its way to the top in Russia in spite of every possible restraint. The masses of the people, most of whom are not only able to read and write but are being educated and otherwise cultivated in a manner not even dreamed of in the days of the Romanoffs.

Another factor which in time must influence the Russian experiment is commercial contact with other countries, without which it is impossible for the Soviet republic to continue its programme. She can not get along without maintaining an intimate relationship with capitalism, no matter what she may call her policy, for she must import materials, machinery and men to develop them from the so-called capitalistic countries.

But in her evolution she will have an unexampled opportunity to develop a social and economic order which will be free from the abuses which have nearly destroyed modern civilization, and which must be driven out elsewhere before the world will recover economic stability. It would be folly for Russia to imagine that she can get along without the rest of the world, but by the same token it is equally foolish for the rest of the world to imagine it can get along without Russia. Everybody who visits that country comes back with a different story, and it is this conflict of report and opinion which makes the land of the Soviets the most baffling enigma of the age.

A RELATED REFORM

Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance, has announced that he proposes to issue a statement dealing with the revenues of the province every three months in future, since he has found there is a satisfactory reaction to the one just issued covering the first quarter of the current fiscal year. We are also told it is admitted that if the government had followed this practice two years ago, when revenues shrank by $6,000,000 in a single year, public demand for expenditures would have been more readily controlled. Present indications are that a general election will be held some time before Christmas; that being the case, Mr. Jones will have time to issue one more statement of the character referred to, and that will deal with the revenues for July, August and September. Before the end of the year, of course, Mr. Jones will be relieved of the problems which he has been trying valiantly to solve.

The admission that if the revenue account had been published quarterly two years ago the public demand for expenditures would have been more readily controlled is an amazing indictment of the government. The government has been spending for five years. It ought to have known if it could afford to satisfy the demands made upon it. Mr. Jones obviously is seeing the error of the government's ways.

RESULTS OF HITLERISM

Some of the bitter fruits of the Hitler tree are already ripening. Seventeen members of the board of the Hamburg-American Line have resigned, following a gloomy meeting in which were painted the evil results of the company's co-ordination with the Nazi regime. The famous German line's business has been constantly falling off. Dr. Max von Schinkel, chairman of the executive board, pointed out, due to the "disaffection of the outside world toward Germany." The older members of the board, unable to align themselves with the policy of the Nazis, refused to take further responsibility and quit. Von Schinkel, a veteran of German shipping, knows intimately these effects. Without any formal boycott, oceanic shipping, especially passenger service, is particularly responsive to sentiment. People going abroad for a holiday pick their ship and their line largely on sentiment.

Prof. Albert Einstein, whose theories almost nobody understands but almost everybody agrees are grand and highly valuable, has been driven from his homeland. The other day he sat in the House of Commons in England and heard a bill introduced extending opportunities for Jews living in other countries to become citizens of the British Empire.

Nobody knows what Germany is losing in the exodus of talented professional people who are being driven from the Fatherland. There must be thousands, unwelcome because they are Jewish, but whose talents, and excellent qualities will make them assets to some other land.

Of course the Nazi enthusiasts believe other gains will make up for these losses. Only time will tell that, but there is no need to blind themselves against the very real and material losses as well as the more intangible ones which are apparent.

UNDER WHICH FLAG?

The resolution passed by the executive of the Islands Central Conservative Association calling for a convention this month at which Colonel Foster is expected to be nominated as a Unionist, with Capt. Macintosh retiring from the picture, is somewhat perplexing. The resolution provides that the candidate must be "independent of party affiliation and subordinate to the principle of a co-operative or union government?" It says, "question of leadership is not a factor; it is one of principle and the question of leadership should not be introduced at present."

But the question of leadership must be a factor. Otherwise, how is the principle going to be applied? Leaders are regarded as potential premiers and, therefore, what is the use of nominating a candidate who has no leader and therefore can present no policy to the electors?

It is not enough for the electors for a candidate to say that he runs on a platform of co-operative or union government. They are entitled to know what he proposes to do if he shall be elected and which leader he favors for the Premiership. The electors of the Islands should not be expected to give anybody a blank cheque on these points. Whom will Colonel Foster, if he is nominated, support—Dr. Tolmie or Mr. Bowser? The electors will be entitled to know.

THE OLD POTSDAM STYLE

The German Foreign Office in effect has told Great Britain and France to mind their own business and not interfere with Germany's Nazi leaflet and radio campaign against Austria.

Both British and French ambassadors in Berlin presented notes of protest and declared that Germany's activities against Austria were a violation of the Four-Power Peace Pact. Germany thinks otherwise.

Chancellor Hitler seems determined to force Austria to "take the blame" and "allow itself to be organized" under the swastika. It would appear that he proposes to ignore the treaty which forbids the union of the two countries.

Great Britain, France and Italy, however, obviously do not propose to stand idly by. But what these three powers will do if Hitler shall still continue his campaign against Austria is a matter for conjecture.

Germany is deliberately provoking Austria. Indirectly she is provoking her partners in the Peace Pact. She is pursuing a policy as dangerous as that other strutting mountebank, Wilhelm Hohenzollern, pursued before 1914.

STILL ANOTHER AIR RECORD

When Wiley Post was interviewed after flying round the world in eight days he said his record would not last long. He thinks it will soon be cut in half and that perhaps in the not very distant future the distance he covered will require only two days of flying.

It may be some time before Post's record is cut down; but the flight of 5,737 miles in fifty-six hours just completed by the two French airmen, Rossi and Codos, sets up another record for a non-stop journey. It is better by 531 miles than the mark set by the British flyers, Gayford and Nicholletts, last year.

It is difficult to say much more about these feats except that they demonstrate the quality of the mechanism of the airplanes employed, while the endurance of the men operating them naturally commands admiration.

The non-stop flight from New York to Syria is a far cry from that achievement at Kittyhawk nearly thirty years ago when the Wright Brothers started the world by persuading their heavier-than-air machine to fly for a few seconds.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

EXPORTS OF WHEAT
 The Edmonton Journal

Farmers who have had wheat to sell recently have been fortunate. The wheat market has been better in the year and it is evident that there were larger stocks on the farms than was generally supposed. But one would feel much more certain that our producers as a whole and the country generally would obtain the benefit of the rise if more wheat were being exported.

THE NEW DEAL
 The Dallas News

The New Deal continues triumphantly to shoulder as if there were no such thing as trouble. The home mortgage measure sets the government up in the business of taking over all the bad debts in the home loan field. The Industry Control Bill assumes that the United States has the right—as it will shortly assume the power—to refuse to license the existence of an interstate business which does not accept the trade agreements as established by a vote of the majority of the concerns in that business. The Home Loan Bill is tinged with state socialism, obviously, but the industrial control regimen is benevolent autocracy. Names, however, make no difference. The country is for trying these, or any other measures of whatever political school of thought or of none. The endorsement of the significant initials "F.D.R." serves as answer to every objection.

A THOUGHT

Loose Ends

Dear grandson becomes too Christian altogether—we keep our country empty—but how many appreciate it?—an old fellow brags of his Indian ancestors—and a young gentleman forgets his gentility.

By H. S. W.

CHRISTIAN

THE VERY REV. DEAN HEWLETT JOHNSON of Canterbury has lately suffered an outburst of true Christianity which has got him in bad all over the British Empire, and which, among practical Christians, cannot be endured for a moment. The Dean, who evidently takes his Christianity seriously and is prepared to follow the views of its Founder, looked abroad and found that there were 90,000,000 people in Japan, a crowded, struggling people, desperate for more space. Just to the south, in the territory of Northern Australia, which is twice as big as Japan, there were only 3,000 people. So the Dean, being a Christian, suggested that Australia present to Japan all the territory which it could not colonize itself. He said, would he change the whole atmosphere of the East for the better?

That was too Christian for words. You can imagine how the whole Christians of the world accepted the Dean's notion. They arose and smote him with a mighty shout which echoed from one end of Australia to the other. But how many of us out here appreciate the simple fact of living in this country, which is a compensation even for the meanness of making it of its management? Most Canadians, with a living paradise all around them, spend the greater part of their lives earning together in a few large towns, strung like infrequent pegs on a clothes line a few miles north of the United States border. In this rough, rugged pioneer country of British Columbia, this last frontier where men are men, most of us live in Vancouver and Victoria and a few smaller towns, and most of us have no real idea what lies beyond the end of the pavement.

Our remote descendants will sigh for this day when a man could walk a few miles from the market place and be alone. In those times, when this country is clamorous and heaving with an even population of heaven-knows-what combination of races, they will look back and yearn for the good old days of the nineteenth century. They will wish they were as free and unhurried and happy as we are now.

THE CHRISTIAN thing to do, of course, as the Dean realizes, would be to give the backward, underprivileged peoples of the earth some territory on which they could be happy, and which we never use. It would be Christian but it wouldn't be practical, and it wouldn't be in the least like us. Instead, having ourselves taken this country by force of arms from France, we have taken it from the Indians, its rightful owners, we prefer to sit back and utilize only a small portion of it, and we proudly condemn Japan, with a holy Christian fervor, for taking Manchuria in order to utilize it.

Still, these things all work out with a grain of logic in them. The small number of people can permanently hold a vast and rich territory without using it. Sooner or later the more numerous races, who need it, and are prepared to use it, come and take it. That has always been our own practice. That has always happened from the days when a grizzly bear roamed the Baby and the rich river valley to the Japanese conquest of Manchuria. The only way to avoid such an arrangement ultimately is to use and populate the rich land instead of holding it empty and unused.

MESS

BUT WE HAVE made such a mess of a rich country here, a country rich enough to give us all a fair living, that we can't afford to let anyone else in, lest he take our job. If we had even a primitive sense of organization and government, every hole-bodied man coming in would be another producer of wealth, to raise the living standard and the prosperity of all.

At this particular time in the world's history, the best type of men and women from all acceptable places in the world should be pouring into Canada to better their own condition and ours, but we can't take them. We can't even keep ourselves properly and a full million of us are on the dole. If the Dean were to take his Christianity to the place where the people are insulting the benefactions of Providence by the misuse of its gifts, he might look over in this direction.

OLD FELLOW

PERHAPS WITH these things in mind, an old fellow strolled into my garden last night for a chat. After a while he volunteered the information that he was a quarter Indian, that his grandmother had been a full-blooded Cowichan. "You know," said the old fellow, "most people are ashamed of their Indian blood. They never mention it. They keep it dark. I can understand that attitude. Personally, I'm proud of my Indian blood, and the more I see of life, the prouder I am."

This attitude was so unusual that I was at a loss to understand it. The old fellow hastened to explain that his ancestors, the Indians, weren't such a bad lot after all. When they owned this country, he said, they were pretty crude and barbaric but, on the whole, they enjoyed life.

"In those days," he said, "there wasn't much to share in the way of luxuries, but everyone had plenty to eat, some kind of a roof and clothes of wild sort. And whatever they had was shared among everyone. Everybody was entitled to his portion of the grub. They might fight with some other tribe from up north, but in their own tribe they wouldn't leave a large portion in want and misery as we do."

"And their warfare was just a little neighborly call compared with ours. I guess my ancestors were pretty rough and ignorant, but they never had any depressions and they weren't running around in circles looking for happiness. They took life as it came and enjoyed it. I ask you, who is enjoying life these days? I gave the old fellow a few words and sent him home as happy as his ancestors."

SPACE

WE'LL WE had better enjoy the spaciousness of this country and its small population while we may. Some day, probably not in our time, this country will fill up with people of our race or another. We hardly appreciate the blessings of a small population, the elbow room, the chance to get away from people and be alone. A friend of mine who has just come back from a long holiday in Britain and on the Continent says that coming back to British Columbia was like escaping from a crowded, clamorous, stuffy room into the open air. To be unable to get away from crowds, from people, for weeks at a time is a horrible experience, he says, and few who have lived out here can be contented again in the Old World.

Obviously the human animal was intended to have plenty of breathing space and was not built to be crammed into a small area of brick and stone. But how many of us out here appreciate the simple fact of living in this country, which is a compensation even for the meanness of making it of its management? Most Canadians, with a living paradise all around them, spend the greater part of their lives earning together in a few large towns, strung like infrequent pegs on a clothes line a few miles north of the United States border. ## THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

BY ALICE MICHAELS

O violin, sing them away.
 The carps that vexed my heart to-day
 The hope that went unsatisfied
 The thing I dreamt I failed to win
 The long-sought goal I failed to win
 For these, give voice, violin!

Deep, deep your throbbing tones can reach
 And to my rebel spirit teach
 The cause I have failed to see
 The truth that was obscure for me
 O violin, sing on, sing on
 Till all the bitterness is gone!

Lead me along the path to peace
 From pain's hot bondage lead me free
 With notes supremely clear and sweet
 Free me of memories of defeat
 O violin, sing on again
 Till life has not one fret or stain!

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES
 August 8, 1908

(From The Times Files)

Weather Forecast—Victoria and vicinity: Light or moderate winds, fine and warm to-day and Sunday.

The government has rescinded the order in council of March 18, which permitted the export of logs to the United States. It is estimated that between eight and ten million feet, practically all cedar, was marketed on Puget Sound since the order was put into effect.

The drill on the guns has practically finished this week. At both Macaulay Point and the naval yard, and on Monday the three companies of the Fifth Regiment in camp will commence target practice with aiming ammunition.

One of the biggest works of street improvement petitioned for this year was turned down at a meeting of the streets, bridges and sewers committee last evening. The work included grading, macadamizing, draining, boulevarding and otherwise improving portions of the streets in the Fairfield estate including Cook, Oxford, Cambridge, May and Chapman streets. The cost to be divided between the property owners and the city in the usual proportion under the local improvement by-law.

The great fight between Oxford and Cambridge for all-round athletic supremacy for the year has ended in a tie with ten events each.

Although hampered for some time by the prevalence of disagreeable weather, the Dominion Government's hydrographic surveys on the new steamer Lillooet, under Captain Musgrave, have so far accomplished some excellent work.

Bringing about 120 passengers and $212,000 in gold in addition to a nugget as large as a platter, the steamship Cottage City, of the Pacific Steamship Company's fleet, has arrived in Seattle from Skagway, after Captain A. C. Jensen had made a record run of fifty hours from Ketchikan to Seattle, including the stop at Prince Rupert.

BARTER AND EXCHANGE

To the Editor:—A news item appeared in the Friday issue of The Victoria Times in regard to a barter and exchange now operating at Langford. For the benefit of your many readers, I would explain that the store at Langford is a branch of the V. I. Barter and Trade Association, of which the head office is 750 Piquet Street of this city.

Perhaps the business men and the citizens of Vancouver Island would be pleased to know that this movement is progressing. The purpose of starting this branch is to broaden our field of operation, making it more convenient for our customers. Customers having a credit with the association has a right to use same at any store of the association. This movement is certainly helping people who have very little money. The article of the Friday issue mentions some of the transactions dealt with at Langford. This is, I am proud to say, just a few of the many that it deals with every day.

People who have work to be done are finding the idea of trading commodities for work a great help in saving what money they have for such as paying taxes, rents, telephone bills, etc. Branches will be opened at Kestling, Sidney, Sooke, Cobble Hill, and on up the island, as soon as arrangements can be made. The writer will gladly explain in detail to any one interested. We are out to help the unemployed and make business better on Vancouver Island.

H. ROWSE,
 Manager V. I. B. and T. Association.

MEDICAL REPORT AT CUMBERLAND

Cumberland, Aug. 5.—The fifty-first annual report of the Canadian Collieries (Dumfries) Limited Employees' Medical Fund has just been released by the secretary, James Dill. The secretary praises the medical and hospital staff and shows a balance on hand of $2,000.15. The serious epidemic has been reported, but an almost continuous series of minor and influenza for six months would make a strain on the fund. During the last forty-one weeks in which the fund has been in existence, there has been collected the sum of $211,704.50, and expended, $212,905.25, which leaves a balance as noted. This is considered a very creditable showing, especially in view of the fact that revenue has been much reduced. The board paid to the Cumberland Hospital, during the year, the sum of $4,500.00 for special nursing fees, apicalar fees to $1,500.00 and $225 was paid to hospitals in the province, primarily the Vancouver General, St. Paul's, Vancouver and the West Coast Hospital, Nanaimo and the West Coast Hospital, Port Moody. The board also paid $175.00 to the medical staff of the fund. The fund was the sum of $2,000.15.

RELIEF COSTS
OVER ESTIMATE
Mayor Urges Economy to Offset Higher Expenditures For Unemployed
Decrease in Number Receiving Relief Not as Great as Expected

Owing to the manner in which the government has handled the relief for single men, combined with a slower decrease in the number of families receiving relief than was expected, the city is overpaid approximately $11,000 on its relief appropriation for the first six months of the year, Mayor Leeming informed the City Council yesterday afternoon.

Although the number of families on relief declined slowly in the months of April, May and June, the total did not go below last year's figure, as anticipated, he explained. This had resulted in an over-expenditure of about $5,000 in this direction.

Some savings have been made to offset this, but in the single men's account the city has been called upon to pay $10,000 more than it expected. Only $5,000 was put in the budget for single men, as it was understood the government would take over the whole cost of relief for this class. However, since the city has had to pay the administration costs, as well as the relief for certain classifications, the expenditure on this account reached $10,000 for the first six months.

This brings the total relief expenditure for the half-year period to $87,410, against an estimate of $76,333. "I am quoting these figures so you will know what we have to face," the mayor said. "We must use every care in further authorizations of general expenditure, because we must keep the budget in balance."

NEW PARK GAME DECLARED OPEN
Mayor, Reeve and Aldermen Play Park Shuffle-board at Mount Douglas

The Victoria-Seattle parks and beaches committee staged a little shuffleboard tournament all its own yesterday evening when the two new boards at Mount Douglas Park were officially opened. Other members of the councils of both municipalities attended.

Mayor Leeming and Alderman P. R. Brown proved adept at the sport, defeating Reeve Crouch and Alderman John Worthington in two out of three games. Aldermen Andrew McGavin and James Adam handed a straight defeat to Aldermen R. T. Williams and J. D. Hunter.

MAPLE REST IS CLEARED

No Grounds For Complaints, Says City Committee's Report on Inquiry

A clean bill was given the administration of the Maple Rest Nursing Home in a report filed by the health committee with the City Council yesterday afternoon following a lengthy investigation of complaints into affairs at the institution.

Adoption of the report was delayed two weeks when Alderman W. D. Todd and Andrew McGavin, who instituted the investigation, intimated they would bring in a minority report.

The health committee's report stated: "While recognizing that facilities at the Maple Rest Home are not all that might be desired, nevertheless, your committee, after a thorough investigation, is of the opinion that the complaints made against the proprietor are not based on fact and are quite unjustified. We find that city patients in the home are well cared for, and that the management is to be commended for the services they render to the patients, particularly in view of the moderate charges made. It is hoped this report will clear up any uneasiness in the public mind as to the manner in which the patients in this home are being cared for."

Alderman J. D. Hunter made a brief reference to the inquiry, stating, "A large number of witnesses had been heard, the favorable witnesses having the preponderance of weight."

HOME WEDDING PRETTY AFFAIR

Miss Elizabeth H. Craig Married Yesterday Evening to Thomas Vance

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Craig, 1274 Park Terrace, Esquimalt, was the setting of a pretty wedding yesterday evening when Rev. G. F. Cox, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, solemnized the marriage of the younger daughter, Elizabeth Hay, to Mr. Thomas Vance, elder son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Vance of Messexburgh, Scotland.

The reception rooms were prettily festooned in pale blue and white streamers and during the ceremony the bride and groom stood beneath a flower-decked archway from which was suspended a large white wedding veil. As the register was being signed, Mr. John Bell sang, "O Promise Me."

The bride was given in marriage by her father and looked charming in an ankle-length gown of white tulle, crepe, fashioned with a flesh-pink lace yoke and puff sleeves, with which she wore a becoming hat of beige lace, with touches of pink. Her bouquet was composed of pink gladioli and gypsophylla. Miss Jessie Craig, sister of the bride, was maid of honor in a becoming frock of wine-colored flat crepe and hat of beige mohair, and Miss Jessie Simpson, the bridesmaid, wore a pretty frock of beige flat crepe and a small beige turban. Both carried bouquets of sweet peas, gladioli and gypsophylla. simply cannot get along without soap and water, use it first and then the cleansing cream.

Tissue cream is an asset to any complexion. It should be composed of oils—not animal fat—and is to be used at night after your face is clean. Every woman over thirty needs to use a tissue cream at least four nights a week. It puts natural oil back into your skin and keeps your complexion soft and unblemished.

A skin toning lotion takes a seat of importance along with your other creams and lotions. It tones the skin and prepares it for makeup. Always apply it with clean cotton pads after you have cleansed your face. It removes excess cleansing cream and is a must for every woman.

Have an astringent for your chin and neck. Apply it to your chin by means of a patten and to your neck with a cotton pad. It keeps necks from becoming flabby and chins from developing into sets of two and three.

A powder base is essential, too. There are various kinds, ranging from the ubiquitous vanishing cream to the liquid powder base, more in favor than a cream. Use it on your nose, forehead and chin before your powder.

Working Wives

By ANNE GARDNER

Harry, of course, had much to tell. He had been all over Europe, and had had exciting assignments in Russia and the Balkans. Most of his talk was of international politics, a subject in which Nan had never taken any interest, and Harry gradually directed most of his remarks to Jocko who displayed a surprising fund of information about world happenings.

Harry had seen Jocko's magazine, and had many compliments for it. The two men, indeed, found many points of contact, and seemed to enjoy each other immensely. Nan, seeing this, didn't mind being ignored a little. She was genuinely glad that her husband and the man whom she had once thought she loved were going to like each other.

CHAPTER XXXI

It was Jocko who asked Harry to come to dinner the next night, much to Nan's surprise. Nan worked hard over the dinner to have the food and the appointments perfect. Harry could not believe that it was all Nan's work. "No more, you've got Oscar from the Waldorf out there in the kitchen," Jocko grinned. "And Nan's got him skinned a mile, anyway."

But when the compliments had been paid about the food, Nan found herself once more subsiding into the background. The men again found many things to talk about that were outside Nan's province. Even when they touched the matters she knew, she felt difficult about speaking, she had been so long out of the current of things.

Harry seemed to have forgotten entirely that he had once considered her fascinating. Apparently she was to him Jocko's wife now, and that was all. This evening, sitting quietly in an easy chair, listening and saying little, Nan became somewhat bitter. It wasn't fair that she should have to grow dull, in order that Jocko might grow clever. That was too great a price to pay. It did not seem to occur to either man that she had once done exciting, interesting things, too, and written of them brilliantly. That she might do so again.

The next meeting, Harry insisted, must be his party. They would have dinner with him and go to a show. "I'm dying to see a New York revue," he said. "Paris is a marvelous city, but even the French can't stage a revue like the Folies Bergere. And I'm going to wait till you folks can be with me."

Nan made a rapid mental calculation. Her evening clothes needed much refurbishing. She simply would not go out on such a party as this in the old rags she had. So she set the date a few days hence, pending engagements that made this necessary.

"I didn't know," she was all dated up like that," Jocko remarked after Harry had left. "We can't keep on seeing each other every night," Nan replied. Which struck Jocko as a very sensible remark. Though he liked Gordon, at that, much better than he had thought he would. And the least he could do for Nan was to be pleasant to her friends.

Nan went next day to a smart little shop where she had had an account in her working era, and bought with a grim disregard for price and budget. She had budgeted long enough. All she had gained from it was the knowledge of how to make flank steak taste like tenderloin, a knowledge that was no social asset that she could use. On the other side of the ledger was a large debt of charm, wit and interest.

Putting the budget out of her life was just what she needed. Nan decided, as she surveyed in the glass the results of her shopping. In the silvery gown, in the lovely evening wrap with its downy fur collar she looked lovelier than she ever had in her life before.

"Harry Gordon will know I'm on earth now," she smiled. At the last minute, Jocko had to give up the party, having been called to the office by a printing emergency. Nan looked so disappointed that he kissed her. "Why you go to bed, my dear."

At the end of the evening, which was nearly breakfast time, for Harry had had to see the famous night clubs after the revue, Nan knew the party had been anything but spoiled. She tip-toed about, so as not to wake the sleeping Jocko, putting her new clothes away carefully. Then she looked long at her face, still lovely even after the long round of gaiety, and laughed softly to herself.

Harry had indeed been conscious of her, of her beauty, of her charm. Clothed beautifully once more, admired, she had sparkled as bright of yore. Harry had been enthralled. "Do you know, Nan," he confided, "this was at about the second night club—I was awfully heart sick when I first saw you the other evening. You weren't like the old Nan at all. No pep, no dash. A sort of quiet little mouse. I thought, 'one more girl ruined by marriage.'"

"But to-night—I've seen some of the loveliest women in the world in the last year and a half. Nan, but no one to compare with you." Nan pretended not to believe him, so that he would say more. He did.

"So you don't care for me as a housewife?" she said presently. "Good Lord, Nan, to think of you spending your life as a job you could hire some woman to do for ten dollars a week!" Nan might have told him that a ten dollar a week woman did not make a practical.

She wanted to be reminded that she had qualities above cooking cheap but nutritious cuts of meat and washing dishes. She plunged deep into Harry's adulation, luxuriated in it. How arid the recent months had been! This was indeed an oasis in the desert in which she had found herself. Who could blame her for wishing to make the most of it?

After that there were many more parties. Harry always had to be going somewhere, doing something, and he could do nothing alone. He liked Jocko and Nan better than anyone else in New York, as he frequently asserted, so they must be his companions.

Sybil Harris was dug up to be Harry's partner on these occasions, the girl who had taken Nan's place at the syndicate. In the old days, Sybil had looked up to Nan, who was the radiant star of the syndicate. Now she no longer need do that. It was Sybil who could enter into the conversation of the men, for she was in touch with the things that interested them.

Sybil was a stunning brunette beauty, which she set off with dazzling clothes. Nan knew how much they must cost. There had been a time when she, too, wore clothes like that. Now the good ones she had left were out of style, such new ones as she could afford to buy must be bought at the cheaper places.

But after these evenings with Sybil, Nan simply could not buy the "cute" little dresses, copies in inferior materials of most expensive models, with which she had thought to be content. She tried them on dutifully, surveyed them with distaste, then found her steps turning inevitably to the smart little shop which was so delighted to extend her credit.

Nan made a discovery. When she looked lovely, she need say little. What she did say, of course, was clever, for she still was Nan. But for the rest, it sufficed to sit immobile, brooding her deep unreadable eyes turned first on one, then on another. She always made a stir, now, in a public place. That was gratifying, when she had starved for attention so long.

It was something, too, a great deal, that she was living again. Having a good time, seeing good shows, eating good dinners at interesting places. It was terribly expensive, of course. Just how expensive, Nan could not say, since she had thrown the budget overboard. And Jocko always insisted on paying his share, and his money seemed to be holding out.

But at last he showed her a ten dollar bill. "Take my bill, my dear," he said. "Have you any more?" Nan hadn't. Only a few dollars to tide them till the next check. But that would be only a few days, she reassured Jocko.

But before the check could come, the bills arrived. Nan looked at the totals of the first few, and felt faint. (To be continued)

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

Frozen desserts of all varieties are greeted with delight and they are so easy to make that it seems desirable to use them often in warm weather.

Plain ice cream and ices can be given to small children without any fear of ill effect, provided the frozen mixture is eaten slowly. Small bites on the tip of the spoon and not too close together prevent small tummies from being overburdened.

A plain vanilla cream is preferred by many mothers for children. If the vanilla cream is served with a sauce for the grown-up members of the family the dessert is suitable for young and old alike.

MANY WAYS OF SERVING A pleasant way to vary an ice cream and cake dessert is to serve it sandwich fashion, putting ice cream between and on top of two thin slices of sponge cake. Cup cakes can be hollowed out and filled with ice cream and a sauce poured over the whole. Cream puff or eclairs shells can be filled with ice cream and covered with a sauce. Sauce is also poured over the ice cream sandwich. Meringue shells and waffles make good substitutes for the usual cake which is served with ice cream.

When it comes to the frozen dessert itself the varieties are numerous. Ices, sherbets, frozen custards, mousses, parfaits and ices of different degrees of richness offer a wide choice of frozen desserts.

Slow steady freezing rather than much and vigorous stirring gives ice cream its smooth texture to a large extent. Of course the amount of cream used in the recipe also has much to do with the texture of the frozen mixture, but it is often hurried freezing instead of stirring or not stirring that is responsible for a coarse, granular ice cream.

SLOW FREEZING-SMOOTHEST The smaller the amount of salt used in freezing a mixture the more velvety the texture, too. This of course lengthens the time required for freezing.

There are several types of freezers on the market and they all have their good points. Crank freezers, vacuum freezers, electric freezers and automatic refrigerators make it possible to produce excellent frozen desserts to suit every taste.

The crank freezer, whether it is turned by hand or electricity, makes ice creams, mousses, parfaits, ices and sherbets with perfect results. Mixtures which are frozen without stirring are made perfectly in vacuum freezers and automatic refrigerators.

TO-MORROW'S MENU Breakfast: Grapefruit juice, cereal cooked with dates, cream, crisp oven toast, milk, coffee. Luncheon: Salmon and pea salad, whole wheat rolls, baked apple dumplings, milk tea. Dinner: Vegetable plate of broccoli, buttered leeks on toast, baked Jerusalem, antichokes, green beans and carrots in cream, ice cream sandwiches with raspberry sauce, milk, coffee.

Friendly Help Appeals—The Friendly Help Welfare Association would much appreciate the gift of a coal oil lamp for the use of a family whose inability to pay their electric light bill has resulted in their being left without light. Anyone having a lamp to donate is requested to communicate with the secretary at the headquarters, Market Building.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton

TEACHING CHILDREN TO BE THEMSELVES

Let us take a rest from the training column again to-day and tell the children another story. So often little lessons can be put over in story form. A lecture has its place but not in hot weather.

I saw a little white birch tree the other day. Under it lay an open picture book. It was hot. The little tree moved restlessly. The picture book on the grass was that of a dragon with seven heads and a long tail.

It does for a story: Once upon a time there was a little tree with lacy leaves and silver bark, thin, like onion skin. Everybody loved the little tree, the birds most of all. But it had other friends; little squirrels and chipmunks ran up its trunk and down again, bunnies sat in its shade, tree toads and katydids and crickets had an orchestra under it at twilight. But above all children played in its shade. Maria and King especially.

A VAIN VENTURE One day King had a picture book along. It was about brave knights and dragons. When he and Maria went home he forgot his book.

It was a still hot afternoon. The little tree sighed, "Oh, dear, I just stay here and never do anything, never go anywhere or have any adventures. I'm just a tree! And what if I were a tree? Wish I were a dragon like that one in the book." The little tree shivered with delight just to think of it.

"I'm going to pretend," it said excitedly. "It has seven heads and I have seven branches. It has a tail, but I have a long root that spreads along the ground there. And I feel hot enough to blow out smoke, I guess—Oh, but I feel funny! What's happening? Oh, I am a dragon. And I'm flying! Here I go to see the world!"

The little tree-dragon I mean—began to fly upward. It flapped its wings and turned toward a high hill. On top of the hill it stopped to rest. It looked about for somebody to talk to. Ah! There was an eagle. But the eagle was screaming and flying away in fright.

Next the dragon saw a deer. "Come here, little deer," called the dragon. "I want to tell you about myself." But the deer was breaking its neck to get away. All about was a great commotion. Every living thing was running for its life.

OLD FRIENDS ARE BEST "There's a nice green field down there," said the dragon. "I'll go there." So he flapped his wings and flew down beside the brook. A little frog, hopped into the water upside down he was so scared. A turtle, too. All the birds flew away screaming and the bunnies and the squirrels hid in holes.

This went on all day. The dragon grew very lonely. "What is the use of having adventures if you haven't any friends?" he said sadly. "When I was just a tree I had friends. You can't have friends if everyone is afraid of you. And friends are the best thing on earth." "Here is our book," he heard voices saying suddenly. "The good little tree kept it safe."

There were Maria and King. It was evening and the fire of the sun had gone. The little tree woke up. And, oh, but he was glad it had just been a dragon! A robin was sitting on his top branch, singing his goodnight song. A cricket was tuning up. A furry brush against his bark—that was the chipmunk.

"I'll be satisfied after this," the little tree said. "I'm happy to be what I am and what I am not. I am a tree and I am a dragon. It is silly to wish you were something else."

And was he not right? There is nothing so fine as being satisfied. To be what we are and stop wishing for impossible things is always best.

DANUBIAN CROPS MAY BE LARGER

Associated Press Rome, Aug. 4.—The European wheat crop, if weather continues favorable, will not only attain but surpass that of 1932, which was the largest thus far recorded, says a report of the International Institute of Agriculture.

The quality of the crop also may be on the whole better than in 1932, the institute says, since rust and blast damage have so far been much smaller.

The four Danubian exporting countries expect together a crop much larger—by about 2,700,000 metric cubic tons—than the very small crop of 1932. This is still appreciably below the average.

Though old crop stocks in these Danubian countries are much reduced, the exportable surplus for the coming season may be calculated, says the institute, at a minimum of 1,200,000 metric tons.

Excellent crops are also expected in Germany, Italy, Poland, Czechoslovakia, the British Isles, Greece and the Netherlands.

The Only Home That Is a Frozen Asset

JUST BECAUSE there may not be a ready sale for a home at a given moment cannot justify calling it a frozen asset. There are three basic necessities of human existence—food, clothing and shelter. Market conditions can never alter the value of the home as an essential to life. While it protects you from the elements your home is never a frozen asset!

The value of your own home actually increases in times of economic stress. It is a substantial visible and USABLE asset! It ignores the influences that affect commodities generally. For this reason a home, even under the worst conditions, is a good investment. Today it is the best investment on earth. Not only does the buyer have immediate and valuable use of his purchase, but he also has a logical expectation of profit. The reason? Real estate prices are abnormally low. Their eventual rise borders on absolute certainty.

The time to buy your home is now! Everything is in your favor.

PRINCE SHOWS ART PICTURE

His Crayon Drawing of Windmill at "They Painted Some Pictures" Exhibit

Winston Churchill, the Doug Fairbanks and Titled Persons Also Show

London, Aug. 8.—One of the most remarkable art exhibitions ever held in London is called "They Painted Some Pictures," and the proceeds will swell the funds of the Hampstead district of the League of Mercy, which benefits charity by £30,000 a year.

The "they" is more tangible than that of Kipling's famous tale. "They" are celebrated men and women and a host of titled folk reading like a volume of Debrett. "They" range from the Prince of Wales to Douglas Fairbanks.

The pictures are grouped in two sections: Those who had never painted before. Those who knew what they were doing.

The pictures and drawings reveal such an astonishing wealth of talent and humor that one suspects most of them knew full well what they were doing.

The Prince of Wales, for instance, is represented by a green and brown crayon drawing of a windmill. He achieved it when he was eight years old and as one critic said, "nobody could possibly mistake it for anything other than a windmill"—which is more than one can say about some futuristic art.

Winston Churchill decided to know what he was doing: he won the first prize in the advanced section with a fine portrait of Sir John Lavery. Lady Lavery, by the way, exhibited her picture of James Maxton, M.P., which the Academy rejected this year.

Miss Gertrude Lawrence, the husky-voiced actress, achieved the "problem picture" of the show. It is called "Trees" and only after a good look at it does one suddenly realize they are a pair of boot trees!

Douglas Fairbanks Jr., who is a clever writer and artist, made a superb study of Miss Lawrence in Justice and Peace. "Great paint—the picture," not Miss Lawrence. In the beginning section Fairbanks Senior is represented with a picture of a cowboy.

Lord Edward Hay carried off the honors for "first efforts" with a self-portrait. Sir Victor Warrender won the booby prize.

John van Druten, the playwright, contributed an orthodox Rear View of a Cow and C. E. Cochran's effort is called simply "Heaven." It is a circus picture with a girl leaping through a hoop from a horse's back.

Greta Garbo is sketched by Lady Inverclyde ("June"), and Lord Berners won a prize with portrait of Osbert Sitwell.

Among the army of budding R.A.'s were Lord Baden-Powell, Lord Deborough, Seymour Hicks, the Duke and Duchess of Westminster, the Earl of Londale, Beverly Nichols, the Dean of Westminster, Lady Eleanor Smith and the Marquess of Blandford.

Slater, W. B. Fowl, N. E. Buddaby, E. W. Carr, Hilton, W. B. Harper, F. Leeming, Roy Harris and R. C. Mainguy.

In the first game of the play-off in the Island League softball between Shawigan Lake and Maple Leaf, played at Duncan Sunday, Shawigan were the victors by a score of 9 to 6.

The next game of the series will be played at Shawigan Tuesday. Bat-cris for Shawigan were Campbell and Gardner and for Maple Leaf Bisset and Strouger. G. McDonald refereed.

JAPANESE TROOPS OUT OF CHINA

Peiping, China, Aug. 8.—After nearly three months' occupation of the Lwan area in north China, the Japanese army yesterday completed its retirement to the Great Wall.

Kuomintang (the Nanking government party) colors displaced Japan's rising sun flag throughout the evacuated territory.

Japanese army headquarters were removed from Miyun, just northeast of Peiping, to Kupeikow on the Great Wall. It is expected the Chinese in a few days will take over administrative control of Shanhaikwan, the port which since January has been in the hands of the Japanese military. Through railway service between Peiping and Shanhaikwan will be restored this week.

The Japanese are pressing Peiping authorities to allow trains to run from Peiping to Mukden via Shanhaikwan, but the Peiping officials are refusing on the ground it would constitute virtual recognition of Manchukuo.

PRINCE WEEPS AT MOVIE SHOW

Destia Demtu's Hobbies Include Religion, Lions and Moving Pictures

He Has Good Cry at Private Showing of "The Sign of the Cross"

New York, Aug. 8.—A little crowd gathered in front of the Paramount Theatre as a police motorcycle escort whirled to the curb and snooded away the line of taxicabs with a shriek of sirens. Into the ample vacancy drew a blue Rolls-Royce, its grotesquely high top testifying a mellow age. Attendants flocked to open the door. Out stepped a tall, dark-skinned man in a white suit, then a small-dark-skinned man in snappy, Harlemesque attire. They faced about to assist a medium-sized dark-skinned man wearing a full beard, a well-tailored brown suit and an air of dignity.

"It's the Prince," breathed the on-lookers. "That prince from Africa who's been down to see Roosevelt."

"Don't look so princely in that get-up, though; he should wear them Conquering Lion trick pants like when his pitchur was in the papers."

PRINCE HAS A GOOD CRY

It was, indeed, the Prince. His Royal Highness, Ras Desta Demtu, son-in-law of His Majesty Haile Selassie I, Emperor of Ethiopia, King of Kings, Defender of the Faith, Conquering Lion of Judah, was going to the movies.

Not to the regular theatre, but to a private projection room for a special showing of "The Sign of the Cross." It seems that Prince Desta Demtu's hobbies are military work, horses, religion (he is a Coptic Christian), lions (there being a great many of the latter at the royal palace at Addis-Ababa), and motion pictures. Since all of these things were combined in the DeMille spectacle, Paramount executives figured that His Highness would enjoy it immensely.

And he did. Ensnored between Ato Paulos Manamano, Ethiopian Consul General at Jerusalem (the tall man), and his un-bowed interpreter (the little man), Prince Desta had a grand time, and wept copiously during the sad parts.

MOVIES BY ROYAL COMMAND

The Conquering Lion of Judah and his son-in-law don't get to see many pictures in their own country, it was explained, but when they do they insist that it be a religious spectacle. By royal command, "Ben Hur," "The Ten Commandments" and "The King of Kings" have been shown at Addis-Ababa thus far, the projection machine and the films being transported all the way from Port Said.

Mere mention of that long trek still brings shudders to the sound men who filmed the coronation of Haile Selassie three years ago. It seems that fuel depots previously had been established along the way, but that a band of natives broke into them one by one, drank all the gasoline and held hi-de-ho with remarkable abandon.

Following the private showing, Ras Desta Demtu consented to be interviewed, and the interpreter asked for questions. Did the Prince enjoy his reception in Washington? Would he recommend this picture to the Emperor? Did he enjoy the musical score? Did he intend to visit Haile Selassie? He likes to live in America.

The queries were relayed; the Prince beamed and spoke at considerable length in Amharic. The interpreter listened attentively, then said: "His Highness declares that he enjoyed the picture very much." And with that His Highness and his entourage departed, the dapper little secretary looking proud and imperious, the Prince bowing and grinning his gratitude for courtesies received.

Dillingham May Put Grand Opera Star in Revival of "The Merry Widow"

"The Bohemian Girl" Return Recalls Way It Swept New York in 1844

New York, Aug. 8.—Grand opera folk are strengthening their liaison with the stage. From historic Central City, Col., it is announced that Gladys Swarthout is soon to sing there in a revival of "The Merry Widow." And now comes Charles Dillingham, planning to produce a musical show in the autumn, and admits that he wants to engage Marion Talley for a role in it. . . . Miss Talley is in New York to resume her career in one field or another, having left her Kansas farm and chickens. Her hair is bobbed and curled now, and she seems, for a change, sophisticated and completely self-sufficient. . . .

Old-timers, remembering the premiere here of "The Merry Widow" in 1907, will still tell you how Ethel Jackson sparkled as Sonia, how Donald Brian triumphed in the role of Danilo, and how the piece ran for fifty-two weeks before it took to the road, where it had been heard from periodically ever since. Brian, by the way, the star of "Music in the Air" in New York last season, will be Sonia in the Central City revival.

THE "BOHEMIAN GIRL" RACE

Speaking of revivals—and they're about all there is to speak of in the show business just now—"The Bohemian Girl" is coming back to Broadway. With this one the old-timers are frustrated; not one of them dared claim to remember the opening night in the Park Theatre, when the piece first ran in 1844. . . . According to the yellowed records, though, the town proceeded to go giddy mad. Society leaders gave "Bohemian Girl" dances and dinners; designers got out "Bohemian Girl" frocks and hats; and even carriages and sleighs were decked out in ribbons of Hungarian colors. Gentlemen who went serenading always rendered "Then You'll Remember Me," and "I dream That I Dwell in Marble Halls." Later, over their beer, they'd get together on "The Heart Bowed Down."

The show was such a hit that the Italian Opera Company, around the corner on Chambers Street, closed up in sheer discouragement, though it had been a sensation until then. . . . Balfe, Irish author of "The Bohemian Girl," was lionized for ten years and decorated by three nations. . . . His work was brought to life again and again, of course, with such prima donnas as Alma Gluck, Patti and Nilsson. In 1886 Mr. Milton Abery, now Broadway's grand old revivalist, took Balfe's torch, and ever since has held it high. He's staging the current production.

Had Salt Rheum for a Number of Years. Healed by Cuticura.

"For a number of years I was troubled with salt rheum which kept getting worse each winter. The breaking out was rough and scaly and then turned into large sore eruptions more like blisters. My skin was sore and awfully itchy and I scratched all the time which made the eruptions burn."

"I saw Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised and decided to try them. After a few applications my face began to heal. I bought a cake of Soap and a box of Ointment and in a few weeks my face was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Kenneth R. Hall, Rolling Dam, Charlotte Co., N. B.

DEB. SEASON STARTS EARLY

181 This Fall Attain Social Register Maturity; Parties Cost Less

Many Ex-debbies in Stories; Princess Troubetsky Sells Stockings For $16 a Week

New York, Aug. 8.—What with so many once-wealthy New Yorkers staying in town for the summer and languishing in their penthouses, the debutante season is starting earlier than usual, and less extravagantly than ever before. Time was when a daughter couldn't be well launched for less than $20,000 to $30,000. And $100,000 wasn't an unheard of figure when social parties got keen in the matter of how many big orchestras, orchids, star entertainers and guests one had. Now, though, a girl can be swept into the social swim on a few bottles of champagne, together with maybe a hundred friends, a small band and the ballroom of one of the more modest hotels. This season 181 debas will attain social-register maturity.

PASTIMES OF THE PLATOCRATS
Hobbies of the high-bats: Philip Rhinelanders collect heads; at least, he has a number of them which originally were collected by a tribe of head hunters and shrunk to a miniature size. Grover Loening, the airplane designer, is always criticizing his friends' houses because he wants to help remodel them. He planned his own modernistic house on Long Island. Clarence Mackay, paper-exchange magnate, has a collection of armor valued at more than a million dollars. And Harry Horton Benford owns the most valuable collection of Duncan Wyke furniture outside of any museum. Tommy Hitchcock, the poloist, likes prize fights so well that he goes around unrecognized, to some of the palooka matches at neighborhood sporting clubs. And Anthony Biddle is so clever with his fists that he could lick the average amateur. Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson's social specialty is placing children for adoption. J. P. Morgan knows more about blooded cattle than the average farmer. And John Rockefeller Jr., known more about precious stones than many a jeweler.

SOCIALISM AT WORK
The NRA code hasn't done much so far for the bored or impoverished socialists; but a lot of them are making good money by selling their own shares. There's Prince George Sherbatoff, for instance, who has gone in for chicken raising on a farm upstate. Just to be sure that his eggs are not confused with any common, run-of-the-coop variety, he stamps each one with a neat crown before it is crated. Then there's Whitney Bourne, historically inclined daughter of Mrs. Harvey D. Gibson and the outstanding deb of last season. She'll be on the stage in the fall, and so will Jane Wyatt, one of the ingenue sensations of '33. Two society matrons, Mrs. John Duncan and Mrs. John H. Imlin, Jr., started and are now managing the maternity department of a Fifth Avenue store. And Whitney Bourne, who is working in stores as Jane Bishop, Faith Hollins, Carol Barnes, Margaret Bisford and Louise Huntington. Princess Troubetsky, another of the scores of titled Russians hereabout, gets exactly $16 a week for selling stockings. With the market revival, lots of blue-blooded youth have gone back into the business of peddling bonds. One of them, though, Mr. William Bushaw White, is now guiding the business destinies of a jazz orchestra.

Uncle Ray's Corner

Progress in a Century

FROM TELEGRAPH TO TELEVISION
Most pictures of Samuel F. B. Morse show him as a bearded man with a coat covered with medals; but there was a time when he was a struggling inventor, working to advance an idea. Few if any persons during that period gave him honor for what he was trying to do.

Great ideas almost always are born from the market-place. Men struggle in their secret hearts and brains and bring forth what they hope will be useful to humanity. A great invention or a great book springs from the deep life energy of the one who produces it.

We go back a century in time, we find Morse at work in New York. He is forty-two years old, and he believes that he has found the way to give the world a telegraph system. As he labors in his workshop, he knows that all around him are those who doubt his ideas; but he believes in it and he will

EDWIN GOLDMAN IS DECORATED

Edwin Frank Goldman, distinguished American bandleader, was presented with the Cavaliere of the Order of the Crown of Italy last week during a broadcast by the Goldman Band over a National Broadcasting Company network.

The occasion was the second on which Mr. Goldman has been honored by a foreign government. In 1929 the French republic conferred on him the title of Officer de l'Instruction Publique.

Mr. Goldman has been conducting his famous band in concerts over National Broadcasting Company networks from the Central Park Mall and the campus of New York University for many years, as well as appearing in other cities throughout the United States.

PRINCE HAPPY AS PETER PAN

He Pays Unexpected Visit to Garden Party For Sick Children's Hospital

Reuter's Special To The Victoria Times—London, Aug. 8.—There is much of the "Peter Pan" about the Prince of Wales.

He abounds with spontaneity. He has just paid a surprise and quite informal visit to a children's garden party which was given by his permission in the grounds of Marlborough House for the third year in succession in aid of the construction fund for the Hospital for Sick Children, Great Ormond Street.

The festivities were at their height when the Prince arrived unexpectedly and unannounced. Guided around the party by Lady Thomas, the wife of Sir Godfrey Thomas, his private secretary, the Prince first looked in at the cinema, then had a lucky dip and a peep at the miniature house that folded up. Then he watched a "perfectly safe" miniature switchback railway with evident delight. The enjoyment of the tiny guests on their "hazardous" journey. And among those enjoying the party to the full was the Prince's nephew, the Hon. Gerald Lascelles.

No Powder Puffs Says Nazi Orders

Breslau, Germany, Aug. 8.—Women using artificial aids to beauty are barred from Nazi meetings or entertainments, an official order said today. Doorkeepers have been instructed to refuse admittance to women showing signs of lipstick or powder puff.

WILL DISCUSS FERRY RATES

In a report filed with the City Council yesterday afternoon, the business and trade development committee held with N. B. Desbriay, assistant passenger traffic manager for the C.P.R., when he arrives in the city shortly.

Mr. Desbriay, in a letter to the committee, stated the company could not see its way clear to making a reduction in the rates at the present time.

BOND SALES NEAR $30,000

Nearly $30,000 worth of the city's new debenture issue has been disposed of over the counter, according to a report filed with the City Council yesterday afternoon by D. A. Macdonald, city comptroller.

Of the amount $16,400 has been received in cash and the remainder is in deferred payments.

The present strength of the British Royal Air Force is 2,600 officers, including 2,300 pilots and 22,000 of other ranks.

Sixty per cent. of all airplanes built in the United States in 1929 were biplanes; in 1932 this dropped to 49 per cent.

Uncle Wiggily and the Whistle

(By HOWARD H. GARIS)

Little Tootsie, the newest rabbit child that had come to live with Uncle Wiggily in his hollow stump bungalow, was hopping around in the yard looking for her daddy. Some of Uncle Wiggily's little bunny children were always looking for him to play with them or make them come to see him.

Uncle Wiggily never knew just how many rabbits he had. He could not keep count of them, there were so many. Often when he would go adventuring, he would come home and sit down on the sofa. And often a new little rabbit would hop out from under it and say:

"Hello, Daddy!"

"Hello!" Uncle Wiggily would answer. "You weren't here when I went away this morning. What's your name?"

And the new little rabbit that had come to live with the bunny gentleman might say:

"I am Tootsie, or Tootsie, or Tootsie, or Tootsie, whichever it may be."

"That's fine!" Uncle Wiggily would say and then he would twinkle his pink nose and wonder what would happen tomorrow. So, as I told you at the start of this story, Little Tootsie was a new rabbit and she was looking for her daddy. She had seen him only once, but as soon as she caught sight of him sitting in a chair out under the grape vine, she hopped over to him and said:

"Daddi-daddi, will you please make me a whistle!"

"Make you a whistle, Tootsie!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "Why do you want a whistle?"

"Because my name is Tootsie and I ought to toot a whistle," said the little rabbit child.

"Well, that's one good reason," said Uncle Wiggily with a laugh and a twinkle of his pink nose. "Have you another?"

"Yes," answered Tootsie. "When I grow up I am going to be a traffic cop and I'll need a whistle. Please make me one."

"All right, I'll try," said Uncle Wiggily. "It is rather late in the evening now, but I will make you a whistle in the morning, for then the bark on the stick from which I must make a whistle is wet and slippery and things come off. Willow sticks make the best whistles. But I'll try and see what I can do."

"I should think," said Little Tootsie, "that a piece of slippery elm tree would be good to make a whistle with now. Slippery elm bark ought to slip off easily."

"Perhaps it will," said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll try it. Come on, Tootsie." So the little rabbit hopped with her daddy to the brook on the edge of which grew a slippery elm tree.

Wiggily cut off a branch about as large around as your thumb. He whittled the end thin in the shape of a whistle so it would fit easily Tootsie's mouth.

Then the rabbit gentleman cut a hole on top of the whistle for the tooting sound to come out. Next he pounded the bark with the handle of his knife, to loosen it, I mean to loosen the bark. And when the piece of bark came off after a while, hollow like a bean blower, Mr. Longears shaved off some of the bark and made a hole in the bark to make a place for the sound to gather itself, and he shaved a bit off the mouth end of the stick so Tootsie could blow her breath in and at last the elm whistle was nicely finished, even if it wasn't spring.

"Let me hear you blow," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Toot! Toot!" blew Tootsie on her whistle.

"Fine!" said Uncle Wiggily, laughing. Tootsie was so pleased with her whistle that, when it came time for her to go to bed she took it with her.

"What do you want with a whistle at night?" asked Nurse Jane as she put Tootsie to bed.

"Oh, I'm just going to put it on the little table at the head of my bed, where you leave my drink of water for the night," said Tootsie. "Then I can get the first thing in the morning."

"O.K.," said Nurse Jane.

In the middle of the night when it was all dark and quiet in the hollow stump bungalow, and when everybody was asleep little Tootsie awakened. She reached out in the dark to get a drink of water. And, before she knew up her whistle, she had it before her. She half asleep as she was, she had blown loudly on it. "Toot! Toot! Toot!"

"Oh, my goodness!" squeaked Nurse Jane. "The bungalow must be on fire! I hear the fire engines whistling!" But it was only Tootsie, and when Uncle Wiggily woke up he went in and saw Tootsie's whistle away from her. He took Tootsie's whistle away from her. He gave her a drink and she went back to sleep again and everything was fine and dandy.

And if the candle will take off his hump and pack it in the elephant's trunk when they go to the seashore to gether, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's flash light.

Call New Minister
"Political Novice"Victoria Trades and Labor Council Returns to Controversy With Hon. W. M.
DenniesSome of His Public Statements Characterized as
"Humorous," Especially as He Has Not Been Elected

Declaring that some of the public statements are humorous and prove him an innocent in politics, the press committee of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council has returned to the controversy with Hon. W. M. Dennies, Minister of Labor. In an open letter, the labor council says that as the minister is "a novice in political life," he may be forgiven the humor of disclaiming efforts to secure election by corrupt means, when he has yet to contest his first provincial election although enjoying the emoluments of office in Victoria.

The text of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council's letter is: "You are quoted in the public press of August 4, in answer to the open letter, sent to you in respect of the action of the government, of which you are a member, in enforcing a reduction of wages in government printing bureau. We have waited to give you an opportunity of correcting any particular portion of your interview on the subject, and as such has not been forthcoming, the statement must be accepted as a correct recital of your views.

"You are reported (and we believe correctly) as having said: 'I have never bought a vote in my life, and I do not intend to start now, under any kind of threat.' This is a very moral assertion, and one that, by itself, does you credit. However, it does not (nor does your interview as a whole) in any way reply to the gravamen of our letter.

"You assert you were told by a delegation from the Typographical Union that if the cut were made, it would at once be made a political issue."

"NOVICE IN POLITICS"

"It is presumed you are relying upon your memory of what was said, and in this connection it may, without offense, be observed that the gentlemen who interviewed you upon that occasion have an entirely different recollection of the conversation, and one that does not warrant the implication you would place upon it. Further, it is hardly conceivable that a man of the high moral standing to which you lay claim would permit either attempts at coercion or bribery to be made in your own office, without taking prompt measures to have the offenders apprehended: for such would be your sworn duty.

"As you are a novice in political life, the humor of your disclaiming election by corrupt means, when you have yet to contest (in this province at least) your first legislative office, may be passed by. Yet, for your information, may we advise you that other humorous passages in your statement prove your innocence of a knowledge of the mechanics of government? You deny responsibility for the wage cuts, which, although they may have been ordered prior to your acceptance of the portfolio, were not put into effect until after you had been installed in office. A cardinal principle of government is that one minister is responsible for the acts of the government as a whole. Those who do not wholeheartedly endorse the actions of a government of which they are members have the right (and it is their duty) to tender their resignations. This right was exercised by your predecessor in office, who resigned when he could not subscribe to the policy of the government.

"MORE HUMOR"

"But your humor does not cease there, for you disclose that the whole action was purely political, and that the government played politics, and that, by remaining in the government, you subscribed to it. You state the reason (and the only one) for your stay was that the civil servants employed on a monthly, or yearly, basis had been subjected to wage cuts. In other words, you picture the majority of employees of the government not only in a distasteful (and we believe wholly false) light, as wishing to reduce the wages of the printers because their own emoluments had been reduced.

"Such implied insinuation can only be regarded as (at the worst) a revelation of half the truth. It should be elaborated by you to the extent of candidly saying that the civil servants believed that they had been dealt with unfairly, and that they cited—not with any intention of reducing the pay of the printers, but to increase their own—others in the employ of the government had not been cut, and that the government felt this was an unhealthy condition in view of the approaching elections.

"Now, sir, may we again (and in perhaps clearer and more concise form) repeat the gravamen of our letter. It was that you, as Minister of Labor, showed poor acumen in threatening private industry with dire, but unnamed, penalties by the government if they did not, at once, do precisely what the government of which you are a part was not prepared to do—raise wages.

"May we, without offense, say that it becomes the man who publicly threatens employers, to say that he himself was, threatened (which is denied), especially when the subject of his public threat was concerned with precisely the same economic question upon which he was interviewed—fair wages.

"INSISTENCY ALLEGED"

"For your information, as well as that of the public, we point out that the printing bureau has always been conducted as a separate branch of government, as it is in direct competition with private enterprise. It has been a profit-making venture.

"If it had been argued by the government that this public competition with private printers was operating at a substantial loss, you, sir, might have advanced some measure of argument, but one that could not, of course, be used in view of your unconcealed threat against industry as a whole.

"You, sir, might have advanced some measure of argument, but one that could not, of course, be used in view of your unconcealed threat against industry as a whole.

Daily Health Service
Pain From Insect Bites Can Be Eased With Cold Compress

Few Drops of Diluted Ammonia Water Also Helps; Dog
Bites Dangerous Because of Possibility of Rabies

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

The bites of insects, snakes, cats, and other small animals frequently demand attention.

The sting of a bee, wasp, or yellow jacket should be pulled out if still in the flesh and a drop or two of diluted ammonia water applied to the wound. The application of cold compresses will help stop pain.

The sting of a centipede, spider or scorpion may be more severe than that of a wasp or bee. Bleeding should be encouraged to wash out any material deposited by the bite, then tincture of iodine applied to the wound.

Most spider bites in this country are due to the black widow spider or the black widow. It is called black widow because it looks like a black widow, and black widow because the female frequently eats the male.

The sting of a scorpion is not frequent. A physician usually treats such stings by injecting some anesthetic solution around the bite, including some adrenalin solution to constrict the blood vessels and prevent absorption of the poison.

Plea bites, if painful, may be treated with weak solution of menthol or camphor.

Dog bites, or the bites of any small animal, must always be investigated to determine the possibility of hydrophobia in the animal that bites. The treatment of the bite itself is ordinarily the same as that for any infected wound.

If it seems certain, however, that the animal has rabies, or hydrophobia, the wound should be thoroughly cauterized by a physician.

The scabies or itch mite, travels rapidly from one person to another. The handling of infestation with the itch mite is really a problem for a physician. It demands thorough cleaning of the clothing and the body.

The bite of the bed bug seldom becomes infected, but is an annoyance. The itching is, of course, easily treated by solutions of weak ammonia or very weak menthol.

In the case of every type of insect, prevention is far better than cure. It is necessary to know, first of all, the presence of the insects; second, their breeding habits, and third, special methods for destroying them.

If they are once completely destroyed by fumigation or disinfectant methods they are not likely to return soon again, particularly if sufficient watchfulness is exercised to attack them while they are few in number.

Rebuilding Follows
Fire In Cornwall

Ontario Town on St. Lawrence River Starts "Come-back" Trail After Big Blaze of Yesterday

By J. F. Sanderson, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Cornwall, Ont., Aug. 8.—"Cornwall will come back," exclaimed Mayor Aaron Horowitz as he stood with hundreds of people to-day, viewing the charred and twisted remains of a solid block of fire-razed buildings and places and apartment houses.

One-sixth of the city's business section was destroyed by a fire that broke out at midday yesterday and caused losses totaling close to $1,000,000. To-day Cornwall started on the "come-back" trail.

Three firemen, Chief George Hunter, Deputy Chief G. Moore and Arthur

Conliffe were overcome by the dense smoke that followed up from the thirty-one business places, eight homes and at least fifteen apartment houses that were burned. Each man returned to his post after first aid treatment. Three other people were injured. There were no deaths.

FELL DOWN STAIRS

Harry Plumley, attempting to remove his mother from a blazing apartment house, tumbled down a flight of stairs, but escaped with minor injuries. Leo Caron, a telephone lineman, fell from a half-burned pole some hours after the fire, his head being cut deeply.

Mrs. Robert Hill, one of a milling crowd of thousands that thronged the downtown section, was bowled over by the runaway faucet of a hose line that ripped away from a hydrant. She was washed 100 feet along the street by the force of the water, but her injuries were not serious.

Undersea Picture
Coming Thursday

There are plenty of thrills in a series of breath-taking situations that develop in "Below the Sea," the Columbia picture showing Thursday at the Capitol Theatre.

Fay Wray is the girl, Ralph Bellamy the diver and Fredrick Vogeding and Esther Howard, newcomers to the screen but veterans of the stage, have the other important parts in this picture.

It's an adventure yarn, pure and simple, and is highly recommended to those who would rather see their film favorites move around and do daring things than sit around and speak wise-cracking lines—though there are a few of those in this great picture, too. Al Rogell directed from an original story by Jo Swerling.

Undersea scenes are photographed in technicolor.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Ruth Chatterton pulled a fast one on her fellow players at the First National studio during the production of "Lilly Turner," which is at the Capitol Theatre to-day. As Lilly Turner, the carnival queen, she does a hoochie coochie dance on a crooked stage of a medicine tent show. All the members of other companies on the lot, as well as the Chatterton company, were anxious to see the stately Chatterton single her hips in the cooch, and crowded about the tent at the scheduled time for the scene to be shot. But Miss Chatterton took one glance at the crowd and whispered a quiet word to Director William A. Wellman. The result was that the "shooting" time was changed so that no one knew it was being taken except those directly concerned.

On the same bill is the "Life of Jimmy Dolan," with Edward G. Robinson and Loretta Young. This popular star has the leading role.

EMPIRE THEATRE

Catherine Petkoff in "Arms and the Man" at the Empire Theatre to-day repeats the success she gained in this role on the stage. Born in Portsmouth, her father a dramatic author, she decided on a stage career from the very commencement, her debut being made at the age of fourteen in "Aladdin" at Aberdeen, and her ensuing success in straight comedy and dramatic roles amply testified to her choice.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

The piquant beauty of "Madame Butterfly," Paramount's latest production with Sylvia Sydney, Cary Grant and Charlie Ruggles in the leading roles, come to the screen of the Columbia Theatre to-day, where it will run until to-morrow.

This inspired love tale from John Luther Long's famous story, of a real Geisha girl who actually lived, is universal in its appeal. The production has been a great success with a warm appreciation for all the beauty in the original story.

COMING TO COLUMBIA

Paul Whiteman, who will be seen next Thursday at the Columbia Theatre in Universal's revival of the magnificent "King of Jazz," is responsible for the popularity and stardom of many of to-day's musical comedy and radio personalities, for it was in his orchestra that such favorites as Bing Crosby, Jack Pulton, Alice Joy, Harry Barris, Al Rinker and Japhar Lang and Wilbur Hall were first introduced to the public.

DOMINION THEATRE

Stuart Erwin plays his first straight role in "Hold Your Man," in which Jean Harlow and Clark Gable are co-starred by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. In the film, which is at the Dominion Theatre, Erwin has the sympathetic part of the man who is in love with the underworld girl and wants to marry her, regardless of the bitter truth revealed to him. Previously, Erwin's roles have all been of a hilarious nature.

MAITLAND SEES BETTER TIMES

London Conference Should Be Beneficial to Empire, Says B.C. Cabinet Member

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Aug. 8.—Mr. Maitland, B.C. cabinet member, is in London for a year, and conditions in Canada are much better, declared Hon. L. Maitland, K.C., on his return to Vancouver to-day from London, where he appeared as counsel in appeals before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

In eastern Canada he said he had found great optimism as to the recovery of trade, while even in Saskatchewan, despite all the misfortunes that have befallen the people, there was still a great reserve of courage and aggressiveness left.

"There has been a turning point in the economic situation of the world this year, and it is a turning point in the history of the world," he said.

The World Economic Conference, he said, was in London, and while its achievements were not great, he believed the results would be beneficial to the British Empire.

"As a result of the splendid isolation exhibited by the United States," he commented, "the tendency will be to draw closer together. The success of the Empire Conference at Ottawa last year has been proved and the necessity for more such conferences demonstrated," he said.

WOMAN HIT BY MOTOR CAR

Mrs. J. Richardson of Vancouver Saves Herself By Holding to Bumper

Brighouse, B.C., Aug. 8.—Mrs. J. Richardson, 6705 Archibut Street, Vancouver, had a narrow escape from death yesterday evening when knocked down by an automobile near the entrance to the Lansdowne Race track.

Her presence of mind in seizing hold of the front bumper of the car as she fell to the ground was probably responsible for her escaping critical injury.

According to eye-witnesses, she was dragged beneath the car, and pinned down between the two front wheels, but one of the wheels had touched her, although the car passed over her body.

She is suffering from severe bruises to her legs and arms.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Col. Lorne T. McLaughlin of Toronto, accompanied by his wife, is expected in the city to-day en route to Alaska.

J. McNeil Mulholland yesterday afternoon was appointed acting city commissioner, in the absence of Comptroller D. A. Macdonald on annual vacation in the next two weeks.

Miss Olive Read, 1025 Newbury Avenue, was the winner of the Elizabeth Arden Flower Powder, being the lady whose picture appeared in the Hudson's Bay Company advertisement last Saturday.

In reply to questions from the tribunal, the doctor declared that undoubtedly the experience the veteran had suffered when he was blown up by a shell in France had a bearing on his present condition.

FED ONLY PARAFFIN

A lieutenant of the 16th Battalion, Canadian Mounted Rifles, who was awarded his commission on the field of battle in 1917, asked for a pension on account of complications resulting from stomach trouble and neurasthenia.

He suffered a severe attack of flu at St. Nazaire in 1915, having to be put in hospital right off the ship. He remained in hospital at Argentan, but in 1916 he had to be placed in No. 3 General Hospital at Boulogne for stomach treatment.

"All the treatment I got there was paraffin every morning," the lieutenant complained.

He went on to tell how from 1921 to 1928 on various engineering and other work on this coast he had been a steady taker of opium medicine. For the last three years, he added he had been able to keep going only by consuming medicine.

SEES "GERMANS" IN NANAIMO

Veteran Still Thinks Enemy Shells Coming Over and Hides in Home Basement

Nineteen Great War Veterans Ask Pensions, as Tribunal Opens Sessions Here

When Col. Cy Peck, V.C., as presiding judge opened to-day the sessions here of the Pensions Tribunal, a list of nineteen veterans of the Great War was placed before him. Each of these returned soldiers, because of injuries he received and sufferings he went through between 1914 and 1918, has experienced the collapse of his health and is now asking for the award of a regular monthly pension from the Dominion Government to make up for his incapacity and enable his family, as well as himself, to live.

With Col. Peck on the judges' bench in the Court of Appeal chamber, where the tribunal will be in session all week, is Capt. E. C. MacKenzie of Calgary. Gerald H. Sedger of Victoria is presenting the local cases as soldiers' counsel, while T. J. McKenty cross-examines witnesses on behalf of the tribunal. Dr. F. H. Woodhouse is here as medical expert for the tribunal.

SEES ENEMY ON STREET

How the war shattered the nervous system of a Nanaimo man who enlisted with the 103rd Battalion, was shown by a group of witnesses from Nanaimo, backing up the application of this ex-soldier for a life pension.

The man's wife took the stand and told how she was a Scotch girl and how she and her husband were married during his first leave.

"He was a wonderful man then, but since the war when we came out to Nanaimo in 1920, he's always thinking over the war," she said. "He's always thinking over the war, and sometimes he'll get so excited he'll run and hide himself in the basement because he thinks some shells are coming over." She told the tribunal that when he was with him in the evening on Nanaimo street, he will stop and

Three Chinese In Jail After Holdup

Alleged to Have Committed Robbery at Hatley Park Early Sunday

Provincial Officers Work Quickly to Clear-Up Highway Outrage

Within sixty hours after the spectacular hold-up of two Chinese at Hatley Park, provincial police to-day had in custody three Orientals on charges of robbery with violence.

The trio, Don Mar, Wing Hope and Fong Sing, appeared before Magistrate George Jay this morning for a formal remand to Monday.

Don Mar is an employee at Hatley Park. The other two are Victoria Chinese. Mar and Sing were arrested by provincial police officers yesterday evening and Wing Hope was picked up by Detective Henry Jarvis this morning on information supplied by the provincial officers.

The arrests culminated an intensive investigation of the case by Inspector Robert Owens, Sergeant Richard Harvey, Constables Hugh Hughes and Thomas Plender.

Harry Wong and Shun Jack, who are employed as gardeners at the Hatley Park estate were held up shortly after midnight Saturday. They lost $27.50 in cash, which was part of the monthly pay they had received that day, and some articles of jewelry.

The three accused did not enter a plea this morning. They will appear again in the Provincial Police Court to-morrow afternoon.

CLOTHES AND LODGING TOO

Drop in for dinner any night and the infectious spirit of the place will get you. Daniel Frohman calls it "the most dramatic performance I've ever seen."

Unemployed actors and actresses are waiters, waitresses, bus boys and door men. They have a rollicking time of it.

Various corners of the dining room have names, "Hoogan's Alley," "Mrs. Murphy's Boarding House," and so forth.

In addition to food, the Actors' Club has found many a person a place to sleep. Also clothes. Last week Daisy Humphreys, who handles the rollicking half-follies, phoned Jane Cowl, who has been lavish in her generosity, asking for a tailored suit.

"I only have one left," Jane wailed. "If I should give that, I'd have to stick to dress."

"Well, go on and stick to them," was Daisy's sympathetic answer. "I've found a ten-dollar-a-week job for a girl who has been out of work a year and a half—provided she can find a good-looking suit for her part."

Within an hour, Jane Cowl arrived, wearing a printed dress, carrying a box with a slick, natty little tailleur, also two fresh blouses, gloves, purse, shoes and stockings.

BACKED BY CELEBRITIES

Actors finance the club, in addition to the money rolling in from tickets to the public buy for eating there. Frank Crummit and Julia Sanderson send a substantial check the first day of every month.

Louise Closser Hale has been the only Hollywoodite who has contributed money. But Lee Tracy, arriving from Hollywood, checked his things at the station and took a taxi to get there in

Jobless Actors and Actresses Star in "Show" With Longest Run of Season

Headliners Eat and Perform, Each Meal Buying One For One Less Fortunate

New York, Aug. 8.—There is one show still running on Broadway that is always a success.

It is the Actors' Dinner Club, now at the Woodstock Hotel, organized primarily to feed unemployed theatrical folk.

It has turned out one of the most popular dinner shows in the city for New Yorkers and out-of-towners because not only do you see stage celebrities eating at every table, but the volunteer floor show is worth more than the dollar feeds you (an excellent four-course meal) entertains you and pays for dinner for some actor or actress who wouldn't eat otherwise.

All the headliners from Otis Skinner, Maudie Reade, Ethel Barrymore, Claire Luce, down to the new-comers, such as Francis Lederer and Mimi Mayfair have been "spilled" to do their bit.

KEEPING SPIRIT HIGH

Selena Royle and William Sauter are the originators of the club. They planned it a year ago last December, between the act while playing in Calverton's "The Road."

The club's first dinner, held two weeks after the opening night, was a success.

The all-expense overseas tour of the Canadian Pacific Railway, numbering eleven persons, in charge of R. N. Glover, of the company's passenger department in London, will arrive in Victoria August 25, it was announced here to-day.

The party will arrive here at 7 o'clock on the morning of August 25 and will stay at the Empress Hotel, leaving by the 2:15 o'clock boat for Vancouver on route east.

While here the party will take the Malahat drive, will inspect Butchart's Gardens on the homebound trip and take tea at Brenta Lodge, Brentwood.

The transcontinental itinerary of the British tourists included Quebec, Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Niagara Falls, Great Lakes, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary and south, via the Crow's Nest Pass route to Vancouver. Returning east they will take the main line to Calgary, with stops at Lake Louise and Banff.

Included in the party is Capt. and Mrs. P. F. Barrett of London. Mr. Glover, the conductor, is making his first trip to Canada.

Monticello, N.Y., Aug. 8.—Manning Stewell, intermediary in the O'Connell kidnap case, was arrested this afternoon and charged with the abduction of Lieut. John J. O'Connell Jr. of Albany.

It was through Stewell the payment of $40,000 ransom in marked bills was made.

He claimed he was acting as go-between and arranging for young O'Connell's release.

Wee Scooty swam up to the top and saw the bag of money drop into the little rowboat. Then he smiled from ear to ear.

He'd made somebody happy and that always made him feel just grand. Said he'd bet that fisherman was glad he'd come here.

"Hurray!" cried Goldy. "That sounds great. Where is it? I can hardly wait. Gee, do we have to swim, or is there some way we can ride?"

"I'm just a wee bit tired, right now, but I could reach the spot somehow."

"Ah, that gives me another thought."

"I'll crack two rocks together and a great big whale will understand that I want it to come right here. Just wait and you will see!"

He cracked the rocks with all his might, which shortly brought the whale in sight. "Now comes a ride," said Shrimpy. "There is room enough for three."

Many Stars Have Fallen Down This Season in Major Baseball

Vance, Mooney, Earnshaw and Walberg Among Pitching Failures

United States Sports Writers Criticize Davis Cup Team

THIS year's major league baseball campaign has been featured by the poor showing of a number of the stars. Several of the boys who were expected to fill the headlines this season are almost forgotten men as far as the baseball followers are concerned. Others who have been doing fairly well, measured by ordinary standards, have fallen far short of what was expected of men who have attained the rank of star.

Mel Ott of the New York Giants, for instance, is fielding well and hitting fair enough for an ordinary player, but is far below his mark of former years. Lefty O'Doul, another member of the Giants, who twice led the National League in hitting, once with almost a .400 average, is far below .300. Johnson of the Philadelphia Athletics was touted as a wonder by so great an authority as Connie Mack; and he was living up to Mack's estimate until the pitchers discovered a certain weakness, and thereafter his average began to shrink.

Anyone who has seen Lloyd Waner of the Pittsburgh Pirates would be benched before the season was half over would have been laughed at. But there he is at the present time, warming the Pittsburgh bench. Babe Herman of the Chicago Cubs, Jim Bottomley of the Cincinnati Reds, Joe Judge of the Brooklyn Dodgers and several others are hitting far below what the experts and fans thought they would hit. Boss of the Cleveland Indians, Joe Vossak of the same team, Dale Alexander of the Boston Red Sox, who led the American League last season, and Hayworth of the Detroit Tigers are all far under their normal standard.

Dazzy Vance adds Jim Mooney of the St. Louis Cardinals, George Earnshaw and George Walberg of the Philadelphia Athletics, Dennis McPadden of the New York Yankees, and virtually the entire Brooklyn pitching staff are disappointing. Others have done far more than their most ardent admirers expected. Among such may be named Walter of the Yankees, Pylis of Cleveland, Appling and Swanson of the Chicago White Sox, Pulis of the Phillies and Verges of the Giants.

Since the crushing defeat of the United States Davis Cup tennis team at the hands of the British squad, American sports writers have launched themselves in scathing criticism of the training methods and playing activities of the members of their country's team. One prominent writer has been following to say regarding this year's team:

"When America wins the Davis Cup, which has been resting on the laurels of a team in Europe since 1927, it will be with a team that plays tennis in the tennis season, rather than one that goes traipsing around the world, trying to squeeze some two or three years of play into the twelve months of the calendar. America's 1933 Davis Cup team, beaten in the interzone final this year, violated every rule of training."

"Some champions are so good training rules don't mean a thing to them. Babe Ruth set home run records while eating hot dogs by the dozen and drinking soda pop by the quart, and Hank Aaron was unbeatable on the seventh night after training for boxing matches by six nights of carousing. But none of these mighty men ever tried to get in condition for an important battle by driving through tournament after tournament, as the Davis Cup team did."

"Probably the biggest single factor in beating the Davis Cup team was the winter tour that took Ellsworth Vines and Wilmer Allison to Hawaii, Australia and New Zealand."

"Instead of forgetting tennis for a while, so that they could return to the courts with some enthusiasm, Vines and Allison really played all winter long."

"Then, just ahead of the Davis Cup interzone finals, Vines played through the grueling Wimbledon tournament."

Dr. Patrick O'Gallagher, the Irishman who ended American domination in the Olympic hammer throwing competition, says that the victories which he and Ruridier Tiedall scored in the Los Angeles Olympics have resulted in a kind of interest in track athletics in Ireland. "It's the national sport there now," he declares.

Murio, Dranga and Ryall To Compete In Duncan Tourney

Play Will Get Under Way Tomorrow; California Women to Take Part

HELEN CAMPBELL TO PARTICIPATE

Ross Hocking, Don Campbell and Dunc Williams Head Local Men's Entry

With one of the classic fields in history, the annual Vancouver Island tennis championships will get under way tomorrow on the courts of the Duncan Tennis Club. Four of the most colorful of California's tennis caravan will be in attendance, in addition to a strong entry from Victoria, Vancouver and up-island points. John Murio, newly-crowned Canadian champion, has decided to take part in the island events. With him will be Mrs. Golda Myer Gross, veteran California player of standing; Martin Kenneally, co-holder of two Canadian doubles titles, as well as the B.C. grass and hardcourt, and the Washington State doubles titles. Harry Goldman, a very promising junior, will also be present.

Murio will play with Kenneally in the men's doubles while he will likely play with Mrs. Gross in the mixed doubles. Goldmann is playing with Bob Witt, University of Washington player of promise.

Mel Dranga, Washington State conqueror of Murio, is entered and a final battle between these two players would be well worth watching. The rangy Seattle star has come out of his recent slump and is again playing the tennis he is capable of. His game against Walter Martin in the semi-finals of the Canadian was better than the final. He will play doubles with Ross Hocking. A number of Seattle players have also entered.

RYALL ENTERED

While the centre of interest will focus on the above players, British Columbia will have a number of her ranking players entered to force the going for visiting players. Ossie Ryall, number one provincial player in playing in the singles, as is Don Campbell, Ross Hocking and Dunc Williams, all first five men. Duncan will have a number of capable performers in Ray Corfield, Norman Corfield, Eric Leney, new Davis Cup holder, and Bob Schweigert. Marsh Gordon is another possible entry.

Helen Campbell will provide the competition for Mrs. Gross, in the women's singles, along with Mona Tennie, Mrs. R. Wilson and Jess Campbell. Mrs. Gross will play with Mrs. Wilson in the women's doubles and they should have a good chance of winning.

Victoria's contingent to up-island meets is always a large one. Victoria and Armadale Club will have several members in addition to those already named. Miss Jessie Gordon and Stan Holman are entered from Armadale. Mildred Phillips, Peggy Horne, Peggy Jackson, G. W. Twite and Bert Giet are other local entrants.

Board of Five Suggested to Supervise Football Activities on Lower Island

Strained feelings which were so prevalent among football heads here last year will be absent this year if plans which were drawn up at an open meeting held at the Y.M.C.A. last night are successful. Application will be made to the Dominion Football Association, it was decided by a unanimous vote, to have Victoria make a separate district with a governing body of its own.

Persons attended the meeting and representatives were present from all the Victoria leagues, including the Coast, Senior City, Wednesday, Junior and Juvenile. Perry Payne acted as chairman of the meeting and Fred Oliver as secretary.

The meeting, which was called by the moguls of the Junior Football Association, was due to the outcome of their league meeting held a few weeks ago. Present conditions could not be tolerated, they decided, and something had to be done immediately regarding the government of the game in Victoria before the new season started. They then decided to call the open meeting to try and reach some amicable agreement with the other leagues.

OPINIONS DIFFER

After considerable discussion the following motion was unanimously passed: "That the meeting go on record as being in favor of one governing body for football on the lower island, and that copies of this resolution be sent to all existing organizations, with a request for their endorsement or otherwise at a meeting to be called at a later date for this purpose."

The pros and cons of the question were discussed at length, and it was the opinion of those present that a body to govern the lower part of the island would be the best advantage of players, officials and spectators. It was announced by Secretary Oliver that within the next fortnight another meeting would be called to report on the progress of the plans brought forward at yesterday evening's meeting, and to further discuss the question. If the D.F.A. approves of the plan, a smooth running association is expected on this part of the island. The plan is expected to be a great boost to the local squads and a closer harmony is expected to exist among the various teams. With a governing body for the lower island, with its own officials, different rules for each league as in the past, will be avoided. Before the meeting adjourned a vote of sympathy was extended to Dave McMillan, popular local referee, who was seriously injured at his work last week. McMillan, who has handled a number of important matches here, was popular with both fans and players and their good wishes for a speedy recovery are extended to him.

Purmall Has Big Night With Stick As Slingers Win

Clouts Home Run, Double and Single in 9 to 4 Victory Over Camerons

CAMERONS USE TWO PITCHERS

Leo Holden Winning Hurler; Teams Have Tough Time in Field With Ten Errors

With Bunny Purmall leading the way with a home run, double and single for a perfect evening's average, Slingers blasted their way to a 9-4 victory over Camerons in the Senior Amateur Baseball League game at the Athletic Park yesterday evening. This was another of the replay games and wound up the league season for Camerons. They are still on top of the standings, but stand a chance of being nosed out of first place by either Slingers or the Tillicums.

Slingers were in a dangerous hitting mood and slugged Goldie McKinney from the mound for Camerons after one and a half innings. He was nicked for six hits, including a home run, two doubles and a triple which, combined with Camerons' errors, were good for six runs. He was replaced by Lidstone, who fared little better. He allowed four hits and three runs in three and two-thirds innings. McKinney struck out one and walked two, while Lidstone duplicated.

Leo Holden handled the pitching end for Slingers, and he also ran into considerable trouble. His control was anything but good. He allowed five hits, struck out four, walked two and heaved a couple of wild pitches. He also hit one batter.

Both clubs had a tough night in the field, splitting ten errors between them. The game was loose, but the fans appeared to enjoy the free hitting and scoring, even although little good base ball was witnessed during the six innings. The game was called at that stage on account of darkness.

Each club scored a pair of runs in the first inning. Camerons started proceedings when Love walked. Smith struck out. Belcher's line drive to left centre for two bases scored Love. Bridgewood was safe on a bobbie by Constable. Belcher reaching third, Bridgewood was out on a single. Belcher scored on the play. Ashikawa grounded to Constable.

The second inning saw Slingers continue their scoring with four more runs. Williams opened the inning by driving the ball to right centre for two bases. Constable singled over shortstop, scoring Williams. Bannison lined out to Dunc in left field. Robinson walked. Stickney's two bagger to left field scored Constable. Constable continued his slugging with a double to right field, changing home runs.

TORONTO WINS SOCCER TITLE

Scottish Beat Prince Albert 3 to 0 to Capture Canadian Championship

Victory Comes After Eleven Engagements in Two Drawn Engagements

Winnipeg, Aug. 5.—Toronto Scottish, coached by the redoubtable Dave Weir, were homebound today, the champion amateur soccer team in all North America. Victory over Prince Albert City Reds, champions of western Canada, retained for them the prized crown they won last year in the east-west final of the Canadian title.

Held to two games by the northern challengers, Scottish came through yesterday with a brilliant 3 to 0 win in the final match to close the series. The first game last Thursday ended in a 2 to 2 draw, while the second, played on Saturday, resulted in a scoreless draw.

Scottish goals were scored by Hector MacDonald, rangy outside right, Jimmy Patterson, centre forward, and Billy McManus, fleet left winger.

Defeating the Shamrocks 18 to 6 at the Central Park yesterday evening MacDonalds won the city softball championship. The same two clubs will meet in a best two out of three game series for the Lower Island championship. The winner will meet the victor in the play-off between the Upper and Mid-Island play-offs for the Vancouver Island championship and the right to oppose the mainland winners in the provincial final.

Nanaimo and Ladysmith and Shawanigan Lake and Duncan are now engaged in play-offs and the two winners will meet for the right to oppose the local titleholders.

In yesterday evening's game MacDonalds played first class ball behind the steady hurling of Eric Moir. Both clubs collected twelve hits, but MacDonalds came through with safeties in the pinches.

PLAY TO-NIGHT

The teams will meet to-night at the same grounds at 6:30 o'clock in the first game of the Lower Island final. Sid Jenkins and Edgar Borde will be the umpires. The second game is billed to-morrow evening on the same grounds with Colton and Borde in charge. Caledonians, Forsters and Hudson's Bay won their first round matches in the Peden Cup knockout series. The former took the Bruins into camp, 8 to 3, while the latter downed Civic Staff, 6 to 5. The Forsters' second out Fifth Regiment, 9 to 8, and Crystal Garden won over the Composites by the same score.

ACE HUDKINS IN CRITICAL SHAPE

Los Angeles, Aug. 5.—Two bullets were removed yesterday evening from the body of Ace Hudkins, the former "Nebraska Wildcat" of the pugilistic ring and his surgeon said he would live unless complications develop. A blood transfusion was performed before the operation.

The boxer's condition was described as critical by Dr. P. S. O'Reilly, who directed the operation at the Glendale Hospital where Hudkins was taken after a safe brawl.

Two Giant Killers Provide Surprises At Big Track Meet

Harry Coleman, Winnipeg, Whips Bert Pearson in Canadian 100 Yards Final

WALLACE BAIN CAPTURES 880

Jimmy Ball Shows Old-time Form to Take 440; Wala Individual Champion

Port William, Aug. 8.—Dethroned champions, newly-crowned titlists and successful defenders of former honors, were headed for home to-day, looking ahead to new chances for fame at next year's Canadian track and field championships.

Some cherished trophies, some had only memories of the two-day annual meet Saturday and Sunday at McKellar Park, Port William. No records fell, but there were startling upsets to lend spice to the battle of might and muscle.

Toppling of slender Bert Pearson, rated Canada's finest at the century, and failure of Fred Shaver to take the half mile, held the spotlight as the most startling reverses of the meet. And the races that sent them down to defeat brought fame to two youthful giant killers, Harry Coleman, Winnipeg, who showed a clean pair of heels to Pearson in the 100 yards, and Wallace Bain, Port Arthur, who flashed to victory in the 880.

Individual meet honors went to a husky Port Arthur contender, George Wala. George's brawny shoulders and sturdy arms enabled him to outstrip all comers in the discus, the sixteen-pound shot-put and the javelin throw. Second in the 440 yards, a pair of heels to Pearson in the 100 yards, and veteran Jimmy Ball made a gallant effort to match stride for stride with the younger man in the 440 yards.

The relay race, wind-up event, turned out to be a keen struggle between Manitoba and Hamilton entries. The Winnipeggers won, Jimmy Ball's fast run down the last lap deciding the issue. The time of the relay was 3 minutes 32.1 seconds.

The westerners with Ball were Dick Johnston, Walter Hay and Jimmy's brother, Don. Thunder Bay Amateur Athletic Union was third and last far behind. Border Cities Olympic Club quartette from Windsor, was scratched. Hamilton's four were: Earl Deason, Art Ravensdale, M. Bailey and Fred Shaver.

BALL WINS 440

Jimmy Ball flashed his old-time form again in the 440 yards, registered 50.8 seconds to run Toronto's Harry Mullins into a state of collapse. Wala drew rounds of applause as he ran his string of titles to three by winning the javelin throw. He hurled the spear 173 feet 6½ inches to outstrip J. Hakala, fellow townsmen. He was ranked third in the sixteen-pound hammer throw.

James Worrall gave Montreal its lone title in the running high jump when he cleared the bar at 5 feet 9 inches. Philip Pearson, North Bay Collegiate Institute sensational jumper, who soared 5 feet 11 inches at the British Empire Games in 1928 at Hamilton, was forced to take second place.

Jack Spector, Winnipeg, added his second triumph of the meet by setting a mark of 44.6 seconds in the 440 yard hop, step and jump. He outdistanced dark-skinned Olie Holland, Hamilton, whose best was 42 feet 9½ inches. Spector previously had captured the running broad jump.

ALBERT A TENNIS TOURNAMENT STARTS

Calgary, Aug. 8.—Harry Kinloch, Alberta singles champion, and Georges LeClerc, Ottawa star, advanced in the men's singles as the provincial tournament got under way here yesterday.

Kinloch's brilliant stroking carried him to victory over Jack Oliver, Calgary, who was no match for the Edmonton expert.

LeClerc, en route homeward after competing in the Canadian championships at Vancouver, smothered E. Culley, 6-1, 6-1.

The above layout shows (1) Harold Cotton of the Toronto Maple Leafs; (2) Joe Savoldi, noted wrestling luminary, and (3) Lionel Conacher, who will manage the Toronto team, include the galaxy of talent who will wear Toronto uniforms. Montreal is the other Canadian entry, while the American teams are as yet unnamed. The teams will play under a revamped Canadian code, which will combine the best features of both the Canadian and the American game.

New York Yankees Slice Washington's Lead to Lone Game

Babe Ruth and Company Capture Double-header From Pacesetting Senators

Two More Games In Crucial Series

St. Louis Browns Win First Series For Hornsby; Athletics Defeated

Every time the New York Yankees skid, swerve and knock off a wheel or two in a tangle with some routine opponent, chuckles sweep the baseball lands and the disputable signs of an aged, hard-to-inspire machine about to fly apart all at once like the fabled one-horse shay.

Perfect as to detail in every point, the regatta scene was pictured in the Yankee Stadium yesterday, with 45,000 rooting in the great horseshoe stands, the high-flying Washington Senators, three games in the lead, opening a four-game series with a double-header.

Two HOME RUNS

Babe Ruth belted a home run, Lou Gehrig hit another. The pitchers pitched as they are capable of pitching. Red Ruffing, Herb Pennock, Russ Gibson, Eddie Hahn, passed balls. The hitters hit, the defense was tight. The Yankees swept both games, 6 to 5 and 5 to 4, and the Senators' lead was shaved to a single game.

With two more games left in this series, one to-day and another to-morrow, it is possible for the Yankees to swing into the final third of the season with a one-game lead.

Yesterday action was totally suspended when the National League protested the St. Louis Browns won their first series for Manager Roger Hornsby as Lena Sells shut out the Chicago White Sox 6 to 0 for a 3 to 1 edge.

A five-run assault in the fourth gave the Detroit Tigers enough runs to beat Cleveland 6 to 2 despite six errors.

The home folks gave Bucky Walters, the Boston Red Sox third baseman, a chest of silver and a loving cup at Philadelphia, and he in turn gave the Athletics headache by driving in five runs with a home run and triple as Boston won 8 to 5.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

New York, Aug. 8.—Two ninth-inning rallies, with Ben Chapman and Joe Sewell swinging the deciding blows, yesterday sent the New York Yankees bounding forward within one game of a tie for the American League leadership as they twice turned back Washington Senators in a double-header before a crowd of 45,000. The scores were 6 to 5 and 5 to 4. Chapman's all-important blow, one of the two hits he got in the two games, came in the first game. With two out and second and third occupied, he slashed a single through Joe Cronin, sending Earl Combs and Sam Byrd, running for Babe Ruth, across the plate with the tying and winning runs.

The Babe, connected with his twenty-sixth of the season in the eighth, sent the Yankees into a temporary one-run lead, while Gehrig cracked out his twentieth in the initial inning.

When Gehrig played in the second game, it was the 1,800th consecutive contest in which he had played. The record of 1,307 was made by Everett Scott as a member of the Yankees.

First game, R. H. E. Washington 5 8 1 New York 6 12 2 Batteries: Crowder, Russell and L. Sewell; Van Atta, Moore and Dickey.

Second game, R. H. E. Washington 4 8 1 New York 5 12 1 Batteries: Crowder, Stewart and L. Sewell; Ruffing, Pennock and Dickey.

Detroit, Aug. 8.—Although the Tigers made six errors, four in one inning, they batted out a 6 to 3 victory over Cleveland, yesterday, in the final of a series that went to Detroit, four games to one. Vic Sorrell went the route for Detroit and was in trouble only in the eighth, when Outbitter singled. Burnett was safe on Davis's error, and Averill cracked out a home run, driving in all the Cleveland runs.

R. H. E. Cleveland 3 8 1 Detroit 6 13 6 Batteries: Harder, Brown and Spencer; Sorrell and Hayworth.

Philadelphia, Aug. 8.—Bucky Walters, a Philadelphia boy with Boston Red Sox, made his debut before his home folks yesterday, and led the Sox to an 8 to 5 victory over the Athletics. Presented with a chest of silver and a cup before the game, Walters hit a home run with one on base in the second inning, and in the sixth broke up a 4 to 4 tie by tripling with the bases filled.

R. H. E. Boston 8 13 0 Philadelphia 5 12 0 Batteries: Weiland, Andrews and Ferrell; Evershaw, Combs, Walberg and Cochran.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 8.—Rolland "Lena" Stiles, with the aid of five double plays by his companions, shut out Chicago White Sox, yesterday, 6 to 0, and took the four-game series from the Sox, three to one. It was the first series victory of the Browns since Roger Hornsby took the helm of the club.

R. H. E. Chicago 0 7 1 St. Louis 6 9 0 Batteries: Wyatt, Heaving, Faber and Berry; Sullivan, Stiles and Shea. No games scheduled in National League.

Jersey City 1-16, Toronto 2-1, Albany 4, Buffalo 0, Newark 4, Rochester 0.

Amateur Status of Ellsworth Vines Is Being Investigated

Amateur Union Takes Action Following Reports of His Receiving Pro Offers

OTHER STARS ARE LINKED WITH HIM

Report Has Perry, Cochet and Crawford Deserting Ranks of Amateurs

New York, Aug. 8.—The amateur status of Ellsworth Vines, United States tennis champion, is under investigation as a result of widespread published reports linking his name with professional offers. Louis J. Carruthers, chairman of the Amateur Rules Committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, told the Associated Press to-day.

Carruthers made it plain no action had yet been taken by his committee, and none would be until he ascertained "all the facts" in connection with the much-discussed intention of Vines to forsake amateur ranks after the close of the 1933 season.

He explained the situation as follows: "We have the situation with respect to Vines under very serious consideration. I have read all the newspaper comment about professional proposals and so-called offers. I also have obtained other information on the subject and the amateur rule committee will make a thorough investigation."

"So far as I know, Vines is the only American player whose name has been associated" with these stories and offers.

VINES GLAD

Informed of Carruthers' statement by the Associated Press, Vines declared: "I think it is a good idea. It will save me denying rumors every day."

New York, Aug. 8.—Tennis circles yesterday were discussing with acception a report that the four leading tennis players of the United States, Vines, Perry, Cochet, and Crawford, had decided to desert the ranks of amateurs.

BERNICE WALL IS MEDALIST

Leads Field in U.S. Women's Western Golf Championship With Score of 79

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Over the tricky Oak Park Country Club course yesterday, young Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, Wis., led more than 100 feminine golfers in the qualifying round of the women's Western Golf Association tournament, with a 39-40-79, one over par.

The Wisconsin girl has yet to win a major golf title.

Thirty-one leading women golfers in the "middle" were qualified for the championship flight with scores ranging from 72 to 92.

Two strokes behind the medal winner was Jean Armstrong, youthful Chicagoan who had 41-40-81.

The defending champion, Mrs. Opal S. Hill, Kansas City, who played a courtesy round, scored an 82, as did Mrs. Leon Solomon, crack Memphis, Tenn., player, the Iowa champion, Lucille Robinson of Des Moines, and Elizabeth Abbott of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Hill took a 43 on the outgoing 18th hole, but she was "lucky" in the hole-in-one on the 19th, which brought her to a 39, one over par.

The national champion, Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, qualified with an 83.

TENNIS PLAYERS DROP STOCKINGS

Kent's Special To The Victoria Times

London, Aug. 8.—Feminine modes among the players at Wimbledon undergo yearly changes, but the new ideas this year are neither revolutionary nor very bizarre.

Stockings, of course, have almost disappeared among the players—an undoubted blessing in this torrid heat; the prominent Langlen bandeau is almost a thing of the past, as most of the women players now favor the eye-shades first introduced by Miss Helen Williams—now Mrs. Moody.

There was, fresh and as imperturbable as ever, she has a serious rhy in looks and poise in Miss Kathleen Stammers, known as Miss "Kay" Stammers. The flawless complexion, long lashes and tilted nose of the latter are enhanced by her lithe and buoyant carriage.

On the court, Mrs. Fearnley-Whitling introduced a new "backless" mode, but this does not find so much favor with other women players, chic as the effect is, as Miss Mary Healy's costume, which has an open-shouldered effect achieved by crossed "traces" at the back.

Off the court one of the smartest spectacles is—Madame—Mathew—Stewart, who wears a "backless" mode with a narrow navy ribbon, and a grey flannel suit of unusual cut. Her transparent horn-rimmed glasses have to bow down to the grey color scheme, for the transparent horn rims are of a blue-grey shade. Suzanne Langlen is another follower of the grey color. She is wearing a grey-flannel "spectator sports" suit with little silver-wire bones fastening her tailored jacket.

Mrs. Willis-Moody, however, has a more varied color effect. The red bands on her racket match her granitic lips. Her Lido blue sports coat and white frock complete the rather striking tricolor effect.

Modern Girl Is Without Honor or Pride,
Cries Disgusted Youngster—Adolescent
Youth Needs Divine Patience From Parents

DEAR MISS DIX—Is there no virtue in the modern girl? I am fourteen years old and in the first year of high school. I have been brought up in a good home by fine parents, who have instilled high principles in me, and I love to do what is right. Now this is my problem:

Cannot a girl keep up with the times and still retain her innocence and purity? Practically all the girls at the school to which I go are without honor, pride, decency, honesty, shame and everything else that makes for a good character. They think it is old-fashioned to be righteous. Must this be? TRYING TO BE GOOD.

Answer—This is a terrible indictment that you bring against your schoolmates. I can only hope that you exaggerate the lack of high ideals among them, for these schoolgirls of to-day will be the women into whose hands we shall commit the fate of our country tomorrow, and woe to the land whose men are without honor and whose women are without virtue. Its decadence has begun.

Of course, every student of social conditions knows that there is a deplorable laxness of morals in the schools and this is the more tragic because these children who are experimenting with sex are literally too young to know what they are doing. They are babes playing with fire, unaware that the conflagration they start may burn up everything that is worth while in their lives and leave them scared wrecks, filled with the cinders of burned-out emotions before they are ever men and women.

But not all girls have taken to the downward path in their school days. There are many who are still innocent as you are, and who love virtue and loathe vice for its own sake. Find your friends among them. Then you will not be so bewildered and depressed by those other girls who are taking what is euphemistically called the easiest way, and who are paying for a few attentions from boys with the most priceless thing a woman ever possesses.

Believe me, my child, they are making a sorry bargain and one that they will regret in bitterness and tears later on. They are truly selling their birthright for a mess of pottage. Because, for the sake of a few dates with boys, a few trips to the movies, a few visits to roadhouses, a few drinks of bootleg liquor, they are risking death and disease in a most horrible form and flirting with shame and disgrace. And it isn't worth the price. The game isn't worth the candle.

Why, even the women of the street don't sell out that cheaply. Yet these silly little girls think themselves sophisticated. You could laugh at them if you could keep from crying over their folly. Why, a girl is actually dumb, just to put it on the lowest ground, who forfeits her self-respect and her good name and makes herself a target for gossiping tongues just for the sake of being seen out with something in trousers who has to take her about in the family automobile or borrow carfare from his mother.

Some day you are going to want to marry and you are going to want to marry a real man, a man of high ideals, a man with fixed principles, a man who reverences purity and goodness in woman. That sort of man isn't going to marry a girl who has sold her honor and her good name. He isn't going to want a wife who is a woman at whom people will snicker recalling her past, and at whom other women will look over the bridge of their noses.

What would you do then, if you had led an irregular life for the sake of being popular with boys and have a lot of men take you out and give you what they call "good times"? If you should tell that type of man of your past, the chances are that he would not marry you. If you kept your secret locked in your own heart and married him, you would spend the balance of your life living in shuddering fear of his finding out about the thing that you would rather die than have him know.

It would be the sword of Damocles hanging over your head by a single hair that would kill all of your happiness and peace. And if the man forgave you when you told him your sordid story and married you still, it would still poison your life, because he would never trust you and in every time of domestic strife, he would throw it up to you.

So it pays a girl to be good. It pays her in her own self-respect and the respect of her husband, and it pays her in health and length of days. And don't believe that there is anything modern in vice. It is the oldest of all human things. Since the world began there have been "bad women," and few of them have ever been happy women. Perhaps none, for a clear conscience is the foundation on which all happiness rests.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—We have a young daughter fifteen years old, who is so terribly headstrong she is almost beyond our control. She is discontented, fretful, ill-tempered, saucy, not willing to help about the house or do anything. She wants to go out at nights with other kids and she refuses to let her do so, so there is a perpetual row over it, and she threatens to run away from home. Often she goes to her grandmother's and stays three or four days at a time. We love our daughter and give her a good home, so she has no excuse for her conduct. What can we do about it? We are at our wit's end.

ANXIOUS PARENTS.

Answer—There is no other problem in the world so difficult to deal with as that of the adolescent girl. Because they are in an age when they are out of tune with life itself, and they do not know what they want themselves. They are torn between the conflicting impulses and desires of childhood and maturity and it literally rends them in twain, leaving them a bunch of nerves and temper and irritability and baffled impulses that make them about as pleasant to live with as a sore-headed bear.

And, as in many other cases of mental upset, the adolescent, practically always turns against their parents and feel that they are being persecuted by their fathers and mothers if they refuse to give them everything they desire and to let them run wild. Later on when they have recovered their sanity they appreciate their parents' goodness to them and are glad to listen to their wise counsel, but at the moment they regard father and mother as grinding tyrants and are in hot revolt against them.

Yet this is the critical time of a child's life, the turning point where it either takes the right or wrong road, and when it needs an almost divine patience and love and understanding, for the youngsters have to be handled with a diplomacy that would entitle their fathers and mothers to qualify as Ministers Extraordinary to the Court of St. James.

The conflict during adolescence between parents and children is bound to be so incessant that it is a pity that all boys and girls cannot be sent away from home to school at this time. There they submit to discipline that they would not stand for at home and thus are prevented the estrangements between parents and children that often take place during these hobbledehoy years.

Britain Goes In For Fruit Canning

Wester's special to The Victoria Times

London, Aug. 6.—A large increase in Empire supplies of canned fruit for Britain during 1932 is revealed in a report issued by the Empire Marketing Board. This states that Empire supplies rose from 930,000 cwt. in 1931 to 1,250,000 cwt. in 1932. Overseas Empire countries supplied nearly 40 per cent of the total available as against 30 per cent in 1931, the principal being Malaya, with a record supply of 511,000 cwt. of pineapples.

The bulk of British canned fruit supplies have consisted of imported apricots, peaches, pears and pineapples, but the home-produced canned fruit is forming an increasing proportion of the whole and in 1932 was approximately one-sixth.

A number of new factories were erected in England and Wales, and at the close of the year seventy-two were canning fruit and vegetables.

Oklahoma Indians are off on a ceremonial dance aimed at getting good weather for the crops.

ALBERNI HAD BUSY MONTH

Fourteen Ships Take Over 14,000,000 Feet of Lumber For World Ports

Port Alberni, Aug. 8.—The largest number of ships calling at Port Alberni for lumber cargoes in any one month since this became an established ocean-export base, seventeen years ago, was recorded during July.

Booked to take shipments to the Orient, Africa, the United Kingdom, Australia, the British West Indies, the United States and eastern Canada, sixteen ships came to the Alberni-Pacific and Assembly wharves during the month. Fourteen of them departed in July, the other two having sailed during the first few days of August.

One day, in the latter part of the month, there were four carriers in the harbor at the same time, while a fifth was on its way out. A sixth had to go to Victoria to load first, when there was no accommodation for her at this port.

The United Kingdom was by millions of feet, the leading customer, with China second and Japan third, in quantity.

Following is a list of the ships that sailed during July, their destinations and the amounts taken: Oakworth, Quebec, 450,000 feet; Geddington, Court, England, 480,000 feet; City of Vancouver, Shanghai, 1,800,000 feet; Cape Horn, 800,000 feet; Rochelle, California, 100,000 feet; Taihei Maru, Japanese ports, 500,000 feet; Dagrun, Capetown, 550,000 feet; Leikanger, England, 1,700,000 feet; Harleiden, British West Indies, 200,000 feet; Nordfær, England, 1,000,000 feet; Masunda, England, 1,300,000 feet; City of Victoria, Shanghai, 1,700,000 feet; Toklen, Australia, 1,250,000 feet; Irukisan Maru, Japan, 475,000 feet; Golden Eagle, Australia, 450,000 feet.

SILK CARGO ABOARD SHIP

More than 1,000 bales of raw silk from Japan and China were included in the valuable cargo aboard the Ss. President Jefferson of the American Mail Line, which docked at the Rithet piers yesterday evening at 6 o'clock from the Orient.

The silk was discharged in Seattle this morning and will go south by train this evening, to connect with the Ss. President Wilson, sailing from San Francisco late this week for New York.

The Jefferson brought 250 tons of general cargo for Victoria, including a little silk for transshipment east over Canadian rails. This silk was forwarded to Vancouver to-day.

Capt. Alvin O. Lustie, master of the big liner, reported a good voyage across the north Pacific from Yokohama. The seas had been smooth as glass all the way, he said. There was much fog however, but this did not delay the ship and she docked here nearly a day ahead of schedule.

The Jefferson will have only four days in Seattle, as she is posted to sail on her return voyage to the Orient, Saturday afternoon.
